

Hatsful Of Spring!

EASTER-TIME is bonnet-time, and nowadays the younger set — Girl Scouts, no less — are trying to steal the dazzling hat show from their mothers, who have traditionally awed mankind with their heady creations. Pacifica Girl Scout Troop 1625 held its annual bonnet event at Crespi School, where — Ah, Spring! — judges selected the winners: (left to right) Leila Aldsdurf, "prettiest"; Teri De Rogatis, "cutest"; Barbara Olsen, "original"; and Peggy Slack, also "cutest." Sedeno Testifies:

Slaying Of Patrolman Klass 'Not Deliberate'

Leandro Andreas Sedeno, on trial for his life, denied on the witness stand Monday that he deliberately shot Daly City Police Officer Richard Klass during an escape attempt in 1966.

Sedeno, 36, admitted that he grabbed the officer's gun from its holster after he had been tackled and thrown to the ground. Defense Attorney Dennis L. Woodman asked why.

"I don't know. My reflexes went into action and I just grabbed it," said Sedeno, who was handcuffed at the time.

"Then what happened?" "I brought it up to an angle and I fired a shot into the air and then I started shaking my hands to drop the gun loose. I wanted to shake the gun out of my hands."

"The gun stood hung up on my right hand, like so, and this officer was on my left-hand side. I assume that he must have been the same one that was choking my neck. He grabbed my hands, like so, and turned my hands and triggered the gun again and that was the shot that hit Officer Klass in the back."

"Did you intend to shoot Officer Klass?" Woodman asked.

"No. I was completely at their mercy. I wasn't even putting up a fight."

Sedeno's trial, in which the state is asking the death penalty, is in its seventh day today before a jury of six men and six women in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge Lyle R. Edson. Deputy District Attorney

Robert Bishop completed the case for the prosecution yesterday. The case is expected to be submitted to the jury Thursday.

The state contends that Sedeno, after escaping from the Daly City jail following his arrest on an indecent exposure charge, deliberately shot Officer

An 'Attempt To Placate' In S.S.F. Overpass Matter

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

South San Francisco councilmen paid $1500 for professional advice on whether overpasses were necessary at two locations in the city, then Monday night refused to accept this advice on face value.

Matter-of-fact Councilmen Patrick Ahern was ready to dump the 17-page study of DeLew Cather and Company immediately after the 8 p.m. adjourned council session got started.

He had already made up his mind. The fact that the recommendation of the engineering firm was that overpasses should not be built appeared to be irrelevant to him. He said he wanted an overpass, and that was that.

Ahern was backed, as he was throughout the entire boisterous three-and-one-half hour session by Mayor Frank Bertucelli, who implied that the San Francisco consulting engineering firm probably didn't know what they were talking about anyhow.

But the ironic part of the entire evening was the fact the council majority — Councilmen Frank Mammini, Andrew Rocca and Warren Steinkamp — failed to command the situation with their deciding vote.

They could have moved to accept the recommendation which said, "the pedestrian overcrossings not be built at these locations. Existing and planned traffic signals will accommodate anticipated pedestrian and traffic volumes safely and efficiently."

Instead, in an apparent attempt to placate everyone, they passed such a lengthy motion that seemingly if each word were a brick both overpasses could be built.

A motion by Mammini's was that "in view of the report of both the city and the engineering firm, the overpass should not be constructed at this time. And as recommended in the city engineer and police chief report, a study be made after the road is completed to make a determination as to whether or not an overpass is needed at that point in question or at some other location, or if it actually needed at all. (The supposed reason for the present study.)

"And that the city should proceed with the acquisition of land needed for the anchors (on-and-off ramps) in the construction of the overpass. And that no deletion (of the overpass from the present contract plans and specifications) be made until the anchor easements are established. And that the matter be referred to the city manager and staff and a report to the council be made by the city manager as soon as possible." Also added to this treatise was a four-month time limit for making the study after completion of the roadway to determine the need for an overpass.

It was on the top-heavy 3-2 vote that the consulting firm was hired. Bertucelli and Ahern were not to be moved by such trivialities as a professional look into whether overpasses actually were needed, and possibly saving the city extensive amounts of money. They stated on many occasions that their "experts" were the mothers from the Buri Buri section that flat decided they wanted an overpass regardless.

Neither Bertucelli nor Ahern apparently took into consideration the second overpass in the Westborough section of the city. Residents of this area, who pushed for the study, because they, too, wanted what was best (Please See Page 2, Column 7)

'Savings' On Park Site In Pacifica

The Pacifica City Council Monday night approved the Challenge Development Company's tentative subdivision map for Park Pacific Estates Number 3 and paved the way for considerable savings in the eventual transformation of the 17-acre Frontierland disposal site into a municipal park.

Had the involved proposal been rejected by the city council "the city would have been involved in work that could have run up to $200,000," City Mgr. Bill Masonheimer acknowledged.

It won't cost the city that much now, but some $10,000 as a result of Challenge's plans to proceed with development of 24 lots—16 of which will involve large, estate-type lots of around 18,000 square feet each, according to Lawrence McLaughlin. (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Zoning Laws In San Bruno Are Amended

With considerable ease, three recommendations of the San Bruno planning commissioners to amend certain sections of the city's zoning ordinance were adopted by city council Monday night.

Each item was handled under a separate public hearing. There was no real opposition to any of the items. There was, however, some need for clarification.

Included was an amendment to create minimum offstreet parking. This amendment simply made sure parking definitions in the code were consistent.

In the same code section was an amendment to define and modify the sizes of these garage and parking spaces.

The one item that created the most misunderstanding was creation of a new zoning classification to be known as "D" district, for "development" district.

PROGRAM CURTAILMENT?

'A Sour Note' Expressed By Some Laguna Parents

Group Expected To Fight For Instrumental Music

By FRANK LAPIERRE
Post-Times Writer

Trustees of the Laguna Salada Elementary School District have struck a sour note among parents in Pacifica because of their apparent move towards curtailing instrumental music classes there.

The eventual cutback in the classes which now are attended by some 800 elementary students came as a complete surprise to most parents in the coastal city.

Supt. James Brien last week explained cutbacks in some programs were necessary to balance the school's budget.

But parents expressed dismay with Brien's recommendations and a parents' group was immediately formed to fight the move.

On Thursday, the board of trustees voted to give the programs the austerity axe.

Friday morning three of the five teachers enrolled in the programs received letters in their mailboxes informing them of the unanimous decision.

Within a year the entire program will be abolished, some parents fear.

Once the instrumental music program is buried the effects will be far reaching, one high school music instructor informed The Times.

High schools depend on being "fed" musical talent from elementary schools. When this feeder system stops at the source it is only a matter of time before high schools feel the pinch.

That pinch could come within four years at Oceana High School, according to the high school instructor.

No one is saying exactly how much the program costs or what the benefits-per-dollar are for students participating in the instrumental music classes.

A plan is under way in Pacifica to contact at least five per cent of homes in the district by mail, informing citizens of the board's latest action.

"Parents just didn't know this matter was coming up... it was a real bombshell when we finally got the message," the teacher, who asked not to be identified, said.

The board is expected to discuss the matter again at a public meeting at the Vallejo School commencing at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 26.

Airport Solicitation

2 Pacifica Cab Drivers Arrested In Crackdown

Two Pacifica cabbies were arrested Wednesday in an apparent crack-down on alleged pirating of fares at International Airport.

Booked at county jail on charges of trespassing were Wallace Wayne Weible, 33, of 5 Elm Court, Pacifica, and Orabe M. Ferraj, 25, of San Francisco, both drivers for Pacifica Yellow Cab.

Robert B. Edwards, an airport policeman, told Deputy Sheriff Robert Messier that he saw Weible stop his car in front of the Central Terminal at 6:30 p.m. and pick up three fares.

Edwards explained that Pacifica Yellow Cab does not have a permit to operate at the airport and added that he warned Weible on the previous night that he was to be arrested for unauthorized solicitation if he continued.

Messier noted that warning signs about such activity are posted at all airport entrances and in front of terminal buildings.

Farraj was arrested two hours later. Airport police told Deputy Richard Hansen that they saw Farraj pull in ahead of a line of waiting cabs and pick up some fares. He, too, had been warned to stay away from the airport, police said. Weible and Farraj were released on their own recognizance pending arraignment March 30.

Trouble among airport cabbies was cited by San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto recently as one reason why San Francisco should take over policing of the airport. Ultimate responsibility for policing the facility now rests with the San Mateo County sheriff's office. San Mateo County supervisors gave Alioto their permission to try to get legislation passed that would give jurisdiction to San Francisco.

Trustees of San Bruno Park District Approve Reassignment of Personnel

Reassignment of administrative personnel was the highlight of the San Bruno Park School District board meeting Monday night.

Superintendent George Lawry said there was no specific reason for the job changes and reclassifications other than "being superintendent's prerogative."

According to Lawry some of the changes were requested, and in at least two cases this included a cut in pay. Other changes incidentally, meant increased salaries.

Those affected are Lloyd Garcia, from principal at Willard Engvall School to principal at Belle Air School. He will change position exactly with Belle Air principal Robert Hesslegren. (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

North County's Post Offices All Back To Normal Now

Everything was back to normal this morning following the North County's first postal strike, as most employees reported back to work.

The spotty nationwide strike started in New York City last week and jumped its way to the West Coast, where post-office workers walked off their jobs in San Francisco, San Mateo, Daly City and San Bruno.

But by Tuesday most workers were back on the job and mail delivery was near normal.

Daly City Postmaster Vincent Murphy said the letter carriers and clerks had agreed to a five-day moratorium — until Friday morning — in order to allow President Nixon and union officials to work out a pay and fringe benefit increase.

For a time it appeared the carriers would stay off the job in defiance of both the President's order to return to work and pleas from union officials to "give us time."

The cause of the strike was money.

A postman who is expected to deliver his mail route in rain, snow, sleet, fog and whatever takes home about $120 per week—after he has worked for the Post Office for 21 years.

Tom Bowlin, president of Branch 5364 National Association of Letter Carriers, said the

Item Ten: A Sad Issue

Item 10 on Monday's city council agenda was perhaps one of the saddest issues the City Fathers have taken up in recent years.

It was the resignation, after 18 years, of Maude Hanselman, Daly City Library Trustee and longtime civic leader.

She had seen both the city and library grow from practically a single shelf of books and a handful of citizens to a chain of modern libraries and almost 70,000 people.

It was a great satisfaction to see how far the city's libraries had progressed in her 18 years, Maude explained to her friends.

"With a sympathetic council, a hard-working City Librarian and a conscientious Board of Trustees, this cultural endeavor was bound to move ahead," she explained.

And so, with deep regrets, and because of failing health, Maude stepped down with the knowledge that Daly City's libraries would move even further ahead in the decade to come.

A week after the city honored her at a special employees award banquet, and before the City Council could accept with their usual "deep regrets" her resignation, Maude Hanselman, Daly City Library trustee and pioneer resident, died.

She is survived by her husband, Andrew L.; daughter, Mrs. Jean H. Bricker; sister, Mrs. Marion C. Pascal; grandchildren Michael and Marilyn Bricker.

Mrs. Hanselman was a member and past matron of Crocker Chapter No. 383, O.E.S.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held today from the W. C. Lasswell & Company Mortuary, 6154 Mission Street, Daly City with inurnment at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

Memorials to the American Cancer Society preferred.

who will become principal of Willard Engvall School.

William Jennings will go from associate superintendent of personnel to associate superintendent of business and personnel.

Robert Rottman changes from director of special services to associate superintendent of instruction. John Savage, the vice principal of the Willard Engvall School will become the assistant coordinator of special services of curriculum.

Martin Tumick, curriculum consultant will become coordinator of curriculum services. Edwin Vallier, the director of administration, will become the coordinator of non-instruction services.

Gus Xerogeanes, outdoor education specialist, will become the vice principal at the Willard Engvall School. And Sherrill Houghton, the only non-administrative type, presently office manager, will become coordinator of business services.

All changes will become effective as of July 1.

In other business the trustees heard a brief report from the superintendent concerning the status of the Instructional Material Center Fire. Basically, he said any further action would have to wait on as yet not received report from the insurance people.

The cafeteria situation also was held over. A P-TA survey is now being completed, and along with a financial statement, should be presented to board members at their next meeting.

No report was made concerning budget items. These, too, will come up at the next meeting. Along with them will be some recommendations as to what to do about the district's inter-mural program.

The next meeting of the trustees, regularly scheduled for April 20, will be held instead on April 27, due to a Jewish holiday.

SM Labor Council Supports Teachers

The Central Labor Council of San Mateo County has supported Local 1481, American Federation of Teachers, contention that the Jefferson Union High School District may enter into written agreement with the teachers' organization through the Negotiating Council, according to Robert Delzell, president of the Jefferson AFT unit.

The district attorney's office has ruled, the district board of trustees could not enter into such a pact legally.

Ernest H. Rorback of the San Mateo law firm of Rorback and Law wrote Delzell that the district attorney's ruling "is based upon a misinterpretation of the law" and that "when the matter is more fully considered, we are sure he will revise his conclusion."

The AFT chapter has proposed a lengthy district-teacher contract, lumping together rules and regulations, salary and benefit proposals and other items. Delzell said he has received a copy of a letter from the Central Labor Council to Keith Sorenson, San Mateo County district attorney, in which the Labor Council "fully supports the efforts of the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 in Daly City to secure a signed agreement with the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District."

The teachers had earlier carried their case to the Central Labor Council and asked for their support in their efforts to achieve a signed contract.

The contract proposal is currently being sponsored by a joint committee of two teacher organizations consisting of three teachers from the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) and three teachers from the Jefferson Union High School District Teachers' Association (JUHSUTA). According to Delzell the contract would benefit the students by improving teacher morale and by spelling out exactly what is expected of the teaching staff.

A contract, he said, would help to put an end to the "bickering and infighting between the teachers and the administration which in the past has taken up so much time and energy which could better have been used to teach."

Pacifica's planning administrator, Challenge, McLaughlin pointed out, plans a "minimal amount" of grading, with the natural terrain to be retained on the lots themselves, to be located along an extension of Yosemite Drive, and up the ridge to a point just south of the proposed park site.

The municipality will become involved on a joint basis, with Challenge, it was declared, on street work.

The Coastside Scavenger Company also will become involved. Under the approved proposal, it must fill the existing refuse disposal site with the first layer of earth. The scavenger's participation is expected to be an approximate $30,000.

is "to establish a combining district to encourage high-rise development—open space aesthetic values and reduce rezoning for speculative purposes."

More specifically, it is an enabling ordinance giving the city more control over zoning. For example, a speculator cannot buy a piece of property without completing the project, expecting to make a profit on the changed zone.

Because under this ordinance, if the project is not pursued, the zoning reverts back to its previous zoning. A new owner would have to seek his rezoning himself if he so desired, based on new plans.

Slaying Of Patrolman Klass 'Not Deliberate'

Klass with his own gun after he had been chased down and caught by Klass and Officer James Van Pelt.

Woodman is attempting to show that neither the escape nor the shooting was deliberate and that Officer Klass did not actually die as a direct result of the shooting. The policeman died June 9, 1966, in the operating room at Mary's Help Hospital, more than a month after the shooting.

Sedeno, a bachelor who lived at 455 Irvington Street in Daly City, told the jury Monday that he had been confined in various mental hospitals for treatment of paranoia, schizophrenia and "too much vin rose." His trial was delayed for three years while he was undergoing treatment in the state hospital at Atascadero. He is presently commuting from Agnews State Hospital to court in Redwood City.

The defendant told the jury that he ran out of the police station because he was being beaten by a police officer. He denied that he intended to escape.

"I was being irritated by this officer," Sedeno said, and rather than assault him, I decided to make a retreat.

"I was afraid they were going to beat me up more," he added.

Officer Van Pelt denied on the stand last week that he had beaten the defendant and said that Sedeno had swung on him just before he ran from the police station.

In questioning his client yesterday Woodman said:

"Officer Van Pelt says that you... just shoved it (the gun) in Officer Klass' back and shot him."

"That's not true," Sedeno protested.

"After I got the gun in my hand, I realized I was doing wrong. That's why I fired into the air..."

Projects Are Completed In South SF

Several projects have been accepted as "completed" by the South San Francisco councilman.

These include installation of a chain link fence on Diamond Avenue, new lighting at the Grand Avenue Library and the Armour-Linden Storm Drain project.

Councilmen also approved a change order—number four—on Cabot, Cabot and Forbes Industrial Park units 2 and 2A. The change order extended the time of completion for the McGuire and Hester contract for improvements from February 17 to May 4.

Speaker Is Featured

Dr. Robert Craig will be the featured speaker at the April 1, 8 p.m. meeting of the South San Francisco Citizens for Quality Education. His topic is "Program Planning Budgeting Systems."

The group also will discuss the South San Francisco Unified School District trustees recently proposed tax rate increase and related district-recommended budget changes connected with the increase.

The meeting will be held in the board room of the South San Francisco Unified School District.

Five Students Suspended, Two Expelled

Five students have been suspended and three others expelled from school by the trustees of the Jefferson High School District for their alleged roles in the Serramonte High School disruptions over the past three weeks.

Supt. Edward Morgan disclosed that the suspensions handed down by trustees after seven hours of discussion with the educators, pupils and parents involved were for the maximum ten days allowed by law.

One of the expulsions was for the full school year, two others for a minimum of 20 days. At the end of 20 days the cases are to be reviewed, Morgan said.

Charges ranged from fights, shoving, pushing and abuse of teachers, Morgan explained, in noting that trustees had charged him and others in the district to assume a firm role against those individuals who continue to cause trouble.

Certain conditions have been attached to the cases of the suspended pupils, Morgan said, including continued investigation by the Daly City Police Department into the Serramonte High School incidents, Morgan pointed out.

Wife Finds Husband Dead

Leonard Gerald Vinson, 48, was found dead in his Daly City home Wednesday, a number of broken pill bottles alongside his bed, the coroner's office reports.

Vinson was discovered dead about 4:30 p.m. by his wife, Alice, when she returned to the family home, 144 Citrus Street, from work.

Coroner Paul B. Jensen said that Mrs. Vinson stated her husband, a custodian, had been despondent and had recently told her he intended to "drink myself to death."

Area Post Offices 'Back To Normal' strike was not a spur-of-the-moment decision.

"Our letter carriers had been chomping at the bit for years waiting for a pay raise, or an increase in fringe benefits. We got nothing!"

"We apologize for the inconvenience this caused our patrons, but few of them realize just how little we get—salarywise," Bowlin said.

Bowlin, himself, a veteran of 21 years with the post office, gets $8,400 a year.

Out of this he must pay his own pension plan money; life insurance; health insurance; and union dues, plus the "normal" deductions. His "take home" weekly pay is slightly less than $120.

"I have a responsibility—like my fellow carriers—to my family. And while I am happy working in the Post Office my family and home obligations must come first," Bowlin said.

What surprised carriers the most about the walkout was the public support voiced.

"Not one person calling us on the phone had bitter words. They all said they understood... many didn't know how little money postal employees worked for," one female employee said.

Overpass: 'An Attempt To Placate'

and safest for their children, said they would be willing to abide by the recommendation of the outside firm.

So as the highly emotional Buri Buri residents virulently demanded an overpass, other residents willing to abide by the recommendation of the engineering firm shook their heads; and the representatives of the consulting firm looked bewildered; the matter of the overpass was no further advanced than it had been—with the exception, of course, of being more complicated than before.

To follow up on Mammini's motion, the city will have to acquire property for the possibility of installation of an overpass that may not be constructed. If they don't buy right-of-way now (in an area they don't even know is the right area) the cost of the land will jump higher. And should an overpass finally be voted in, its cost, too, will be astronomical by comparison. Not to mention the fact that unless they delete the overpass (if they don't want it) from the present plans, it will go in any how, according to plans now with the county.

Jeff El. Reading Program 'Excellent', Consultant Says

Despite high minority and heavy transient populations, the Jefferson Elementary School District's reading program is "excellent," according to Walter McHugh, a reading consultant from California State College, Hayward.

McHugh, reviewing the November, 1969 test results for the sixth grade, found the average mean of district reading to be "sixth grade, second month." "You're doing just as well as the 'mean' school district in the United States on which this test was normed. In other words, you're in excellent shape," McHugh declared.

He thought the result particularly noteworthy, because "15 per cent of the children in your district come from minority population, and you have within the district a very heavy concentration of transient children."

coming into the district or out of the district." McHugh said that any district that was able to reach the national norm "is very good."

Though noting the district's children didn't show as well in last year's Stanford tests, McHugh acknowledged, "no one does," adding: "In my travels in analyzing data throughout the state, the Stanford test tends to test the California pupil almost one year below other tests."

McHugh looks for greater improvement at the lower levels in state textbooks on reading, "the vocabulary burden in the primary grades is double what it was in the old series."

McHugh also had some ideas on other areas of reading: "You do have many high potential children in grades seven and eight who should be getting reading in terms of note-taking, study skills and speed-reading."

Grades seven and eight are when reading should be speeded up, he declared.

McHugh also countered some concern that had been expressed by one of the trustees, who thought of the district's program as involving three different approaches.

"You are using one," McHugh declared.

"The only distinct difference," he asserted, "is time, only time."

McHugh similarly thought the "best method" of teaching is "the method that works best for children."

He indicated that the method a teacher feels most competent with probably is the one that should be used by that specific teacher.

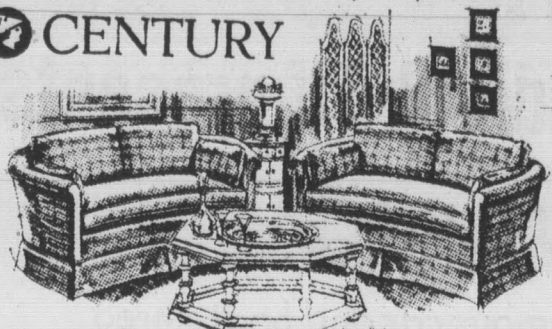

McHugh advanced that in his observation of some 150 master teachers, "I discovered that even the coming year, primarily, he said, because in newly adopted every single method that they used worked."

How the program is put together and called is "totally irrelevant," McHugh emphasized. "It's what the teacher does with the children she has when she gets them and the individual provisions she makes for her high, her average and her low."

He added, "And there's no reason why a teacher cannot one year take a child and put the blocs all together in one time using the same materials and the next year with another teacher the time can be changed — we change bus schedules, airplane schedules, every kind of schedule; there's absolutely no reason why a child can't function in either one of these two time blocs equally well."

D.C. Youth Found Dead

A Daly City youth who started drinking on Friday after receiving his draft notice was found dead at his home Saturday.

Coroner Paul B. Jensen reported that an autopsy has failed to disclose the cause of death of Patrick Donald Clabby, 19, of 1433 Southgate Avenue.

Clabby was found dead, lying fully clothed on his bed, at 12:45 a.m. by Charles Prouty, 17, who resides at the home.

Jensen said that the autopsy revealed no indication of drug ingestion, but that microscopic and toxicological tests will be made.

According to the coroner, Clabby and two friends were drinking vodka and orange juice in the kitchen of the home about 4:30 p.m. on Friday when the youth's mother, Mrs. Donald Clabby, left the house.

Mrs. Clabby reported that she called home about 6 p.m., but there was no answer to the phone. The father told investigators that his son had received his draft notice on Friday and that was the apparent reason for the drinking.

Everyone Has His Say At Daly City Meeting

By FRANK LAPIERRE Post-Times Writer

All ten candidates in the upcoming Daly City council race participated in the C.I.T.Y. sponsored candidates' night Thursday at the Lincoln Clubhouse.

The program was moderated by Dr. Rudi Tretton and Edward Eastman with each candidate allotted five minutes to speak first on his background and platform and time to answer three questions posed by the audience.

It was hailed as the largest candidate turnout the Community Interaction Thru You (C.I.T.Y.) group had ever sponsored.

Although the candidates were called on in alphabetical order, Dino Tonelli was permitted to speak first as he had a prior engagement and left early.

Tonelli said his years of experience in the paramedical business would prove beneficial to the community in combatting the drug problem.

He felt parents must be educated along with young users. The word "relocation" coupled with redevelopment of an area was a "dirty word" to Tonelli, who was asked how he felt about building up the area around the BARTD station on Knowles Avenue.

Former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and candidate for the council, Louis J. Papan, said federal and state laws had pre-empted local laws on drugs, but felt the growing problem of teen-age drug abuse should still be discussed as a way towards finding a solution to the deadly problem.

Papan started his five-minute presentation by reciting an ancient proverb: "It is more difficult to govern oneself, than it is to govern an entire city."

The knowledge that he might not have the ability to hear and understand all the people "frightens me," Papan said. "But I'll certainly listen."

Communications between the council and citizens, and council members was a main link in solving some of the city's problems, and Papan appealed to the people to help him better communicate on issues.

Candidate and current Jefferson Elementary School District Trustee William (Bill) Schumacher told how the city is working with the school district, and other agencies, in trying to find an answer to the drug problem.

He recommended that an "in depth juvenile bureau" composed of three men and a policewoman be established in the city, along with an expanded recreational program.

Mrs. Marie Taylor, one of the two women candidates in the upcoming April 14 election, said she was not happy about the city streets in her neighborhood and labeled them dirty and neglected. She said the city needs more police without increased taxes and thought it was "up to the government to punish dope pushers."

The reason children get into trouble is they have too much free time, candidate Mrs. Maria Luna explained.

She admitted her experience in politics was slight, "but I'm willing to learn."

And it was "about time someone started thinking about (the city's) senior citizens," Mrs. Luna said.

Incumbent councilman Michael DeBernardi based his platform on his past achievements during 16 consecutive years in office and pointed to the city's $11 million water distribution system, that was built without raising the tax rate, as an example of these accomplishments.

In 1958, DeBernardi said, he was one of two persons responsible for working out an agreement on the use of playgrounds between the city and school district, thus saving the city thousands of what he called "unseen dollars."

Had this agreement not been worked out the city would have had to condemn homes to build parks.

On the question of police and fire pay parity DeBernardi sidestepped the controversial issue, explaining it was difficult to hire policemen whereas firemen appeared to be more readily available.

McRobert (Mac) Stewart allowed that drugs and youth "must go together because everyone is talking about them."

He singled out Mission Street and some 45 vacant stores along the once-busy shopping street as an indication of the deterioration in that part of the growing city.

"The traffic still goes by, but it won't stop. Our job is to find out why those people don't stop," Stewart said.

A "domino effect" would result if Mission Street were spruced up. People would begin shopping there and to get to the area shoppers would ride buses, thereby dictating a need for upgrading this service. More sales taxes would be filling the city's coffers and this could be used to build parks and other improvements in the city.

Stewart spoke of pay parity between firemen and police and said "we need firemen more than police" in telling the audience that "too many experienced firemen were leaving our city."

Incumbent councilman and Daly City Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett said he had activated himself in "every form of community life" in the city and had devoted his time to serving its citizens on numerous civic and governmental committees.

"The path I have taken on taxes, I feel, is a correct one. There is now talk (in Sacramento) of tax relief for fixed income people," Lycett said.

In answer to a question asked by Mrs. S. Krips — "why did you stop talks on drugs?" Mayor Lycett stated, "The drug talks have not been stopped."

On another question by Mrs. Kathy Smallwood on how the mayor felt about minority appointments to official posts, Lycett replied:

"Ask Mr. (Edward) Eastman. I just recommended him for appointment to the Draft Board — a federal appointment."

"Frankly, I would like to get off this 'kick' of talking about a black or brown person and just talk about people," Lycett said.

Attorney Frank Magnani is concerned about his children. "That is why I am a candidate people" he would make himself available "six or seven hours a week."

Last candidate of the evening was Morris J. Tolson who said city councilmen should be required to attend all school and county meetings in order to establish better communications' and a dental plan.

between official agencies. Discounts on merchandise and buses should be given to senior citizens and he pledged to work towards this goal.

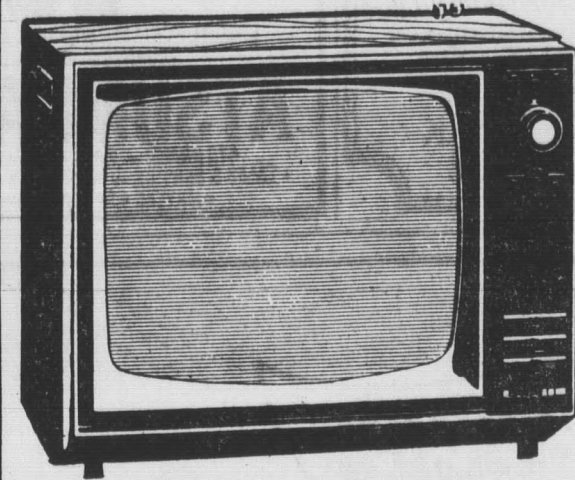

Tolson also said he would study the possibility of a better health plan for city employees and a dental plan.

Candidate Raps Ryan About-Face

Frank Toto Spadarella, Republican candidate for assemblyman (twenty-seventh district) today chided incumbent Assemblyman Leo Ryan for being a year late in recognizing the impact of the conflict of interest law on volunteer office holders, who already are sacrificing of their time and talent for the public good without a cent of remuneration.

Spadarella's comments follow a letter from Assemblyman Ryan to Burlingame Supt. O. John Taylor, in which he said his vote for the conflict-of-interest act was "the worst vote I ever cast."

"There is no question in my mind," Spadarella stated, "that the present law to go into effect in April, went too far by including the small local office holders such as school board members and trustees, in its desire to have elected officials make a full disclosure of their financial interests. However, I do believe that those in major policy-making positions—such as assemblymen—owe it to those who elect them to be frank and honest in showing their financial holdings as assurance that their money is not in conflict with important measures."

"As to Mr. Ryan, if he now feels that his original vote was wrong, why did he not think it through last year—and vote for what was right instead of being a sheep and following the 'party line'."

"Furthermore, Mr. Ryan now charges that it was pressure from the press that influenced him, thereby trying to throw the blame on others. What is the press if it is not a mirror of public opinion?"

"May I note, that this law also places candidates for office under its provisions. Therefore, it will be my duty as a candidate to follow its dictates and state my financial interests, just as it applies to Assemblyman Ryan. I have no fear of what my record will show. I look forward with interest, as I am sure the voters of San Mateo County will, on Mr. Ryan's statement."

"Although a coalition of both parties recently attempted to enact an emergency measure, AB 430, which would have prevented last year's conflict-of-interest law from taking effect in April, that was defeated. "However, there is still hope that it will be enacted later, after a more mature analysis of its effect. In the meanwhile, I do hope that those long-suffering citizens who have contributed so much to the public good as school officials, and in similar jobs, will continue their sacrifices by remaining in office; although I cannot blame them for threatening to resign rather than place themselves in an embarrassing position, subject to unjust criticism for their hard-earned financial position."

"After all, if they did not have a fair income, they could not sacrifice the time and out-of-pocket cost which serving the public requires."

Police, Fire Pay Parity Vote Issue

"I feel strongly that there should be parity in pay between fire and police personnel," Daly City council candidate McRobert (Mac) Stewart said today.

"The reason I say this, is that we all face certain perils in our chosen professions, and I can't understand why we have drawn a definite line between these two dedicated departments in our city."

"If we look back a few years, many of us can recall that the fireman was continually faced with more potential danger than a policeman, at that time," he said.

"We also remember pay considerations were equal for each group. And now with the pendulum of our society swinging in phases, our police departments are getting the larger share of the resident's attention. But this, in no way, minimizes the dangers ever-present to the members of our fire department," Stewart said.

He said there are thousands of taxpayers in the city that are equally concerned with the possibility of their property being destroyed by fire, as they are with the danger of damage by riot or vandalism.

"These same citizens, I am sure, also remember the immense pride we once had for our great fire department, but some have lost sight of this pride, with the result being that we have lost many highly qualified firemen to other communities, where they are being appreciated."

"I believe our fire department has temporarily lost its identification with the city, and I would like to help bring them back into focus again by establishing parity in pay between these two outstanding departments," Stewart explained.

Concluding his remarks, Stewart said "I think it is ridiculous for us, as residents of this progressive city, to allow the inequality to exist between members of the fire and police departments."

"We know that the potential conflagrations facing each department are not selective, so why should we be? I would appreciate the opportunity to rectify this situation," Stewart said.

S.S.F. Speakers

An investigator for the State Department of Motor Vehicles will be the guest speaker at the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday at the Brentwood Lodge, 101 Brentwood Drive. Leonard Goldberg will talk on "Driver's licenses — the best identification?"

Gap Exists On Council, Papan Says

Daly City Council Candidate Louis J. Papan today accused incumbent Councilman Michael R. DeBernardi of being a "do-nothing" politician whose voting record in the past four years has deteriorated "from bad to worse."

"The minutes of council meetings speak for themselves. First, Councilman DeBernardi votes to annex a 65 acre parcel of Colma land to Daly City which he knows will be developed into a mobile home park, and next he votes against the development of the park," Papan charged.

He blasted the incumbent councilman on what he labeled "inconsistencies" in voting and accused DeBernardi of shifting his stand on "just about everything" since being returned to office four years ago.

"For months discussions were held between developers of the mobile home park (in Colma) and the city staff and council. The matter came before the City Planner and the City Planning Commission. What was transpiring was certainly no secret."

"The modern mobile home park, which will bring in additional revenues to the city without burdening the school district with more children, will at the same time eliminate two eyesores—a pig farm and horse stable," Papan explained.

He said the plans were also discussed with representatives of the influential Hillside Homeowners Association and owners of the property, Cypress-Abbey Company.

A stipulation of the property owner included in the long term lease agreement was that only a non-permanent type development would be permitted on the site—in other words a mobile home park, the candidate said.

"If the incumbent councilman did not understand this he apparently wasn't listening to either the staff, developer, his fellow councilmen or homeowner representatives during those many months," Papan said.

Papan said such action on the part of DeBernardi "has contributed in great part to the present breakdown in communications between citizens, city staff and council itself."

Survey Over In Pacifica

Nearly ten major issues have emerged as a result of an intensive three-phase survey conducted by the Citizens for Addleman Committee.

According to Addleman's Campaign Chairman, Bob Wiseman, they have "gone to the grass roots of the residential and business community to feel the pulse of growing Pacifica."

The survey has specifically pinpointed the issues of significant interest to the Pacifica voters.

The Addleman Committee went directly to those portions of Pacifica that will provide the degree of sensitivity required. The candidate intends to find what are the needs and wants of the people in the community, and then concentrate on what the people need and want.

To get the best possible representative sample, three separate questionnaires were prepared and distributed to the community.

The voter issues will be presented progressively as the campaign for the three vacancies on the Pacifica City Council becomes more intense.

Political Roundup

"Tony was for us from the very beginning. Everyone else was ignoring us, some people were knocking us, and a couple of people were laughing at us. Yet from the very beginning, before it was popular, Tony was for us."

With that statement, the former heads of the Teen Center movement in San Bruno, Marsha Sanders and Kay Sharkey, wholeheartedly endorsed candidate Anthony Governale for the San Bruno City Council.

The girls, who headed up the most widely supported drive at Crestmoor High School, expressed their strong feeling to day concerning the upcoming city council elections.

Other teen center workers who joined in support of Tony Governale were Mike Martinez, financial director of the teen center, Greg Hubbs, Tina Turner, Mary Ann Diddy, Marlene Strong, social chairman, Mollie Whisler, Jan Dalton, publicity chairman, Janis Steele, Dave Sanders, and MaryAnn Demerest.

Robert H. Highsmith has been selected as co-campaign chairman for Theodore (Ted) Long's bid for San Bruno City Council. Highsmith is a long time resident of the Peninsula and has been active in local and county politics. His most recent efforts include the organization of an environmental control board, the purpose of which is to gain State and Federal assistance to maintain suitable lands for recreational purposes.

Highsmith will share duties with Gary Hawthorne, a resident of San Bruno's Rollingwood area.

Samuel Halsted, Mayor of Portola Valley, a former chairman of the Regional Planning Committee in San Mateo County, Republican Candidate for the 12th Senatorial District, a planner and protector of the citizen's right to a livable environment, today addressed a speech to the Daly City Rotary on "Environmental Problems, Local, Regional, and State."

Halsted added, "If we are to save the Coastside, we must fight for it this year, and we must fight to save the quality of education in the coastside schools, by assuming as our right to use the land too, a responsibility to help pay for it. The tiny fraction of a percentage that would be added to a tax bill to prevent an unjust burden on a small district is a minute price everyone at the Conference indicated they would willingly assume. Certainly in this era of environment equitable laws can be passed to save our national treasures for our pleasure now and as the finest inheritance we can leave our children. . . . If it is not done this year, and we are still talking in three years, it will be too late. I urge all of you to assist in this critical issue."

The author of the Pete McCloskey campaign book and co-chairman of the Save Our Bay Action Committee today endorsed the Senatorial candidacy of Arlen Gregorio.

Rodney Minott, told the press, "I am very happy to support Arlen Gregorio for Senate because of the great need for a responsible conservationist to represent all conservationists from San Mateo County."

Minott, Professor of U.S. History at Cal-State in Hayward, is a co-chairman of the Save Our Bay Action Committee.

Special Easter Menus For Holiday Weekend

Thriving prosperity is a way of life with most Americans. And when viewing the abundance of leisure available in the Bay Area, this standard was never more obvious. This Easter weekend will again prove to be no exception. Countless restaurateurs and club owners are going all out to provide their patrons with the very best in food and entertainment and Bright Lights pages offer a choice selection of the best. Besides being an important religious holiday, let us hope that this Easter will be a turning point for future years; that peace among brothers and nations will prevail. Visit the church of your choice and be grateful of your American heritage. Wishing one and all a Joyous Easter.—Lloyd Johnson

Piano bar entertainment featuring Maurice Anger at the key-board is a popular feature of the comfortable Mark Twain Lounge Tuesdays through Saturdays at the Hilton Inn, San Francisco International Airport. . . Yolanda's Terminal Cafe, a popular family-style Italian dinner house, located among the produce warehouses in South San Francisco, is equally popular for its Crab Cioppino every Friday evening. Hostess Yolanda is on hand to insure your complete dining satisfaction. . . Whether it be a pick-me-up at noon with a deluxe luncheon, a relaxing cocktail in the evening with a gourmet dinner, or a banquet in any of their fine rooms, the Iron Horse in Maiden Lane is an exciting place to be. . . Frank and Fannie Torres, owners of Torres restaurant in Montara (located just south of Devil's Slide on Highway One), invite you to drop in after dark and see the beautiful ocean setting below the restaurant, which has been illuminated by a superb lighting system installed just last year by the long-standing restaurateurs. . . Operatic voices, amateur and professional, can be heard and enjoyed at the Bocce Ball in North Beach.

Don Dianda had several notables dining at Doros in San Francisco recently. Among them congressional aspirant John Tunney, a handsome man who had the ladies ogling him; Adolph Schuman, ladies dress biggie, and Walter Schorenstein, real estate mogul. . . If your taste runs from broiled New York Steak to tender Baked Ham, the Easter Sunday menu at the Blue Peacock restaurant (located in Kings Bowl, Millbrae) will feature many festive favorites. Check the advertisement in Bright Lights and see for yourself. . . Ever hear of a rear entrance doing more business than the front entrance? Bruno's in San Francisco's Mission claims this distinction. Sixty per cent of their guests use the handy rear entrance parking lot for easy entree to the dining room and bar. . . Fried Cream Flambe, Crepes Suzette, Baked Alaska and Cherries Jubilee are some of the glamorous flaming desserts offered at Bertolucci's. Fresh Strawberries (in season) and Bertolucci's Cheese Cake are other tempters. If you want a cake for a celebration, order their creamy "Special Occasion Cake."

Sport Stars Frequent Lew Lehr's Steak House

Lew and Edith Lehr's Steak House in San Francisco's Marina District is a favorite dining spot for sports greats, such as Wilt Chamberlain, Rick Barry, Nate Thurmond, and Don Drysdale. Most sports stars are also champion eaters, and at Lehr's they can order any size steak to suit their appetite. . . Fred and Jerry Rapp's Holiday Inn, South San Francisco, will be among the outstanding Peninsula restaurants to lead the Easter festivities. Serving brunch from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., followed with their regular menu from noon to 10 p.m. Reservations are recommended for brunch. . . Enrico Romano, the Pacifica pizza prince, has added a royal flare to the exterior of his pizza palace. New red and white striped canopies are attention getters as you drive up. . . Luncheons are now being served at the Plantation Beefsteak House at the top of Ghirardelli Square's Chocolate Building. New hours are 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for luncheon, 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. for dinner. Rack of lamb and lobster tail are new additions to the Plantation inner menu.

Edith Lehr

LUCKY LOUIE — Louis Gundunas, the Balkan Village owner who made it big on Broadway in New York in "Zorba," will soon join the West Coast company of the hit musical. The show will open in Los Angeles in April and comes to the Curran in San Francisco in June. While in New York, Gundunas met many famous stars, including beautiful Ann Margret.

The hostess with the lovely smile who greets you at the 'Auberge is Jeannie Michelucci. The pretty lass also doubles as cashier and hat check girl at the fashionable Atherton restaurant. . . Three-way combination at the House of Troy: luncheon, dinner and cocktails. Keeps the cash register playing a happy tune seven days a week. . . Eileen Suyama and The New Trend top the V.I.P. Lounge entertainment bill at Le Baron Hotel-San Francisco. This is an action spot and a credit to the Peninsula. . . For your "Attitude Adjustment," visit The Putter in Burlingame between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m., when hot hors d'oeuvres are one of the adjustment specialties. . . Toshio Kiyohara's Iriune Japanese restaurant is authentically decorated with beautiful paper lanterns and rice paper screen doors. Chop sticks are also available if you'd like to try your skill in the Japanese tradition. . . The live entertainment in Nero's Nook, which begins at 5 p.m. daily at the Palo Alto Cabana Hyatt House, is ideal for after-work relaxation. The program gets under way with sophisticated cocktail hour music by a pianist, and Nero's Goddesses (the curvy waitresses) serve the cool libations. Herb Eberle and Jackie Vaughn, a couple of talented musicians, are on stage at 9 p.m. to present a full evening's entertainment.

A selective southern menu will be featured at the New Southern for Easter Sunday dining, report the South San Francisco restaurant owners, Nick Sbarra, Reno and Julio Donati. Among the many entrees will be their famous Southern-style Baked Ham. . . Companies planning group activities at the plush Shirt Tail restaurant, Palo Alto, in months to come are Hewlett-Packard, Itel, Syntex, Varian, Wall Street Journal and Granger Associates. Managers Durby Adkins and Roland Raven are especially trained to handle group luncheons, dinners and cocktail parties. . . Fun things happen when you dine at The Castaway, located on San Mateo's Coyote Point. No matter where you look there's something of interest, such as the huge Polynesian out-rigger canoe, which is hand carved, hanging from the ceiling. . . Springtime and Fashions add up to the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery in San Francisco. Sunday at 5 p.m. the informal, sports and evening wear, from Lanz of California, will be fashioned by ten beautiful Patricia Stevens models. Advance reservations may be made now.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

A Sabella's Complete Banquet Accommodation

For early birds who crave luxury and comfort while having breakfast, the Benjamin Franklin Hotel is open at 6 a.m. . . . When a three-story restaurant has one complete floor reserved just for banquets, you can be sure that experts in this business are taking your reservations. And such is Lucien Sabella, who rebuilt his plush A. Sabella's restaurant on Fisherman's Wharf with your banquet requirements in mind . . . Over 300,000 persons from the Bay Area and Northern California visit Barney's Casino in South Lake Tahoe, via Greyhound-sponsored buses and drive-up packages, during the year. Making the bus arrangements for Barney's and the nearby South Tahoe Nugget is Park Avenue Tours . . . Marge Brandon, Baron's effervescent organist, has a great time on Easter. She hides Easter eggs about the cocktail lounge and Baron's patrons hunt them out like the kids they used to be. Last year Marge hid a few in a lounge chair which she had forgotten to boil—and there was quite a "scramble" when a guest sat on them . . . A sure winner at Foster's is the Complete Dinner. Featuring "All the Farm-Fried Chicken you can eat," the $2.85 dinner is served every day.

NEW LEADER — Albert A. Salah, new general manager of the Executive House-Thunderbolt Hotel in Millbrae, has already taken full reign of the multi-million dollar hotel complex. A 10-year veteran of the Executive House chain, Mr. Salah last held an executive position in the Chicago headquarters hotel as Resident Manager and right-hand-man to Harry E. Fear, Vice President and General Manager of the corporation. Many changes are planned, including a new dining room.

Another exciting Zorba Greek restaurant is on the drawing board, announced Alexis Fındrilakis early this week. Two locations are being speculated in either Palo Alto or San Jose. As Alexis puts it, "this little Greek boy is going places." . . . Dining recently at the newly reopened Sky Deck restaurant, located above the Royal Lodge Motel, were Ambassador Tours president Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pollard of Burlingame and their guests, making final plans for the 22-day Expo 70 cruise to the Orient . . . Luz Garcia is the owner and operator of the Sinaloa Mexican cantina in North Beach, which specializes in Mexican food and entertainment. "A little bit of old Mexico" in the heart of San Francisco . . . Tino's, now undergoing an expansion program, will soon unveil a new dining room and cocktail lounge. The additional room will enable more patrons to enjoy the Costantino brothers' outstanding Continental and French dishes . . . The Matterhorn Swiss restaurant will be open and serving dinner from 3 p.m. on Easter Sunday. Marion and Wilfried Blarer are prepared for a big turn-out. Best to get your reservations in now.

A "Happy Hour" feature at the Costa Brava, a hilltop restaurant offering a penthouse view of San Francisco's skyline, the Bay, and the Peninsula, is a "Foot-Long Martini" served in your own carafe. Offered weekdays from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., along with Ladies' Cocktails at 50 cents, the 12-inch-long drink is served by pretty waitress Beverly Funchess. Dancing to The Rising Sons from 9 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday . . . The Shamrock Inn Nevada bonus refund is well worth a double-take—and also making the trip "on the double." . . . Special note to antique collectors: Check out that Grandfather's clock in the cocktail lounge of Scotty Campbell's, Redwood City. No, it's not for sale, just for looks, says petite restaurant co-owner Mary Lou Francis . . . Reporting in: Enjoyed corned beef and cabbage at Vince's, yesterday. This Thursday luncheon special is served with a choice of Clam Chowder or Minestrone Soup or Luncheon Salad . . . Erik Bruhn, Carla Fracci and other top dancers of the American Ballet Theater were fascinated by the female impersonators at Finocchio's during the ballet company's recent San Francisco tour. Finocchio's is a mecca for performers in most of the big stage productions visiting San Francisco . . . Order your favorite cocktails at Neal's Pub, located in the new Westborough Square. They're mixed the way you like 'em by experts.

To give you an idea of how plush the Banquet Room is at The Shadows of San Mateo, Dave Rasmussen plunked out $150,000 to construct it. The spacious party room is always booked well in advance. So let this be a reminder to get your reservations in early . . . The Leaning Tower will serve Easter Sunday dinner from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. Make reservations now, is the advice of Joe and Lou Ercoli, mainstays of this booming South San Francisco restaurant . . . "Chinese St. Patrick's Day" was the theme of the regional convention held by "Parents Without Partners" at the Golden Pavilion in Los Altos. The all-day meeting included lunch and dinner which featured special Chinese gourmet menus selected from "The Six Classic Chinese Cuisines." The affair, planned by Mrs. Isabel Varley, President from Palo Alto, was a gala dance in the Hall of the Four Seasons . . . The Black Stag restaurant on Ralston Avenue, Belmont, is now taking reservations for their Easter Brunch. Serving from 10 a.m. Easter Sunday morning . . . Busy merchants on San Francisco's Mission Street have found a popular haven for morning coffee at Kitty's Coffee Shop. Kitty and Louis open at 6 a.m. for early risers.

'Political' Night Was Perfect—For Band

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

Undoubtedly, the greatest amount of poise, polish and professionalism at Wednesday's candidates night in the South San Francisco Elks Lodge came from the El Camino High School band and performing arts group.

The group put on an impressive half-hour show for the nearly 200 persons present to hear what seven candidates had to say about how they would fit into the government structure.

Don Leshner, exhalted ruler of the lodge, acted as master of ceremonies; and moderator of the five minute presentations, two minute rebuttals and question and answer period.

He laid down some early ground rules such as, "persons will be asked to leave if they back a candidate into a corner (verbally that is)," and if a candidate feels a question from the audience is too personal, he may answer at his own discretion.

Although the candidates appeared in reverse alphabetical order, veteran Councilman Patrick Ahern was under the gun most of the evening. He is the only incumbent running for reelection. A second veteran councilman, Andrew Rosca, chose not to run.

Ahern made his stand on 12 years of service to the city, claiming credit for as many positive city accomplishments as a five-minute period would allow.

After a list which included the new swimming pool, a new fire station and library, he concluded by saying the residents were getting all these things "while the tax rate is continually going down."

His confidence in his future on the council also was evident by the fact he apparently feels it unnecessary to offer campaign.

St. Paul's Church In S.S.F. Slates Candidate Talks

A public Candidates' Night has been slated for Friday, April 10 at St. Paul's United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall, Miller and Spruce avenues, South San Francisco.

Sponsored by the Commission on Christian Social Concerns, the public forum is to let voters of South San Francisco hear and quiz candidates for the city council.

Jess Serrata, chairman of the sponsoring commission, indicated that invitations have been sent to all registered candidates for the city council's two vacancies, and nearly all have accepted and indicated they will be present.

Serrata pointed out that this candidates' night is sponsored by the church as a public service, and Mrs. J. R. Kruidinier of the Leagues of Women Voters will moderate the session.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall, Miller and Spruce avenues in South San Francisco.

literature. All seats in the large lodge ballroom contained a stack of literature, items from each candidate with the exception of Ahern.

One of the written questions from the audience answered by Ahern, incidentally, had to do with "talk" that it was his desire to fire the city manager.

Said Ahern, "I have no intention of firing anyone as long as he is doing the job."

The incumbent also got into somewhat a verbal tangle with candidate Gordon Boblitt, a member of the city's planning commission.

Boblitt questioned Ahern's leadership in the city's beautification plan, saying the beautification committee hasn't met for 11 months and there is more than $200,000 "lying idle" that could be put to beautification use.

Ahern's reply was that "we have a beautification program that won't stop, and it hasn't cost you any more taxes." He noted also that it was through his effort and backing that put Boblitt on the planning commission.

"Over $2 million has been spent on beautification," said Ahern. "How can Boblitt improve on that?"

Boblitt, incidentally, stressed "excellence in government" as part of his five minute segment, including "elimination of leadership stagnation."

Candidate Ed Rickenbacher also came on strong against the present administration, and backed Boblitt's charge of failure of Ahern to move the beautification program along.

He cited the council as having "a lack in leadership, failure to act, and full of personality clashes. There's no old town or new town," said Rickenbacher. "We're all one town."

Boblitt made reference to this invisible split, too, saying he's tired of the reference to Westborough residents as being "those people on the hill. For the most part," said Boblitt, "this is their second home in South San Francisco." Boblitt has been a Westborough resident for three of his 20 years in South San Francisco.

Ed Toby, another resident of Westborough, stayed much on the same line in his attack on the present council. He said it is "unresponsive" and fails to act on long-standing issues. "We have self-interest politics," said Toby, calling for a return to citizens' government.

Two of the council candidates, Tony Montoya and Bill Borba, emphasized that they had no intention of knocking the image of the city council, said Montoya.

Candidate Night Set By FDR P-TA

The Franklin D. Roosevelt P-TA of Daly City will present a Candidates Night, April 1.

The school, located at 1200 Skyline Drive, is inviting all interested members of the community to come hear and question the candidates for the office of councilman in Daly City.

The program will begin at 7:30 and anyone wanting an insight into the candidates feeling on various subjects may come and question the candidates.

"Rather, I will stick to salient points of the campaign. I will not be a part of any power struggle."

One of the points he considers salient is ecology. He also said that if he were elected he would take immediate action to institute a law suit through the city attorney against contractors causing dust problems within the city.

Borba, who referred to the other candidates as "fellow competitors" said, "I am a doer, not a talker." He answered a written question concerning the axing of the present council. "who profits from beautification of the Oyster Point Marina," by saying if someone is interested in that he should go to the city clerk and find out who owns the adjacent land.

"I am not teamed with Ahern," said Borba. "An I'm financing my own campaign."

Filling in for absentee candidate Terry Mirri, was his campaign manager Chris Ramos. Mirri is at Fort Ord fulfilling a military obligation. He is expected to return for the final week of campaigning.

Ramos touched on Mirri's qualifications. But a brief respite from the normal routine was offered when Mirri supporters presented a two-minute color slide presentation of their candidate, backed by his voice on tape.

Mirri said the theme of his campaign is unity. "Unification is the cornerstone of a strong local government," said the voice on the tape. He went on to say that a "serious disunity" exists, along with an "inter-urban" rivalry. "And," according to Mirri, "both are self-defeating and bad for South San Francisco."

THE MARQUEE

Dr. King: 20th Century Prophet

Hollywood couldn't have conceived it, actors couldn't have so deeply penetrated the psyche of the man, and no director could have so realistically designed the course of action. I'm referring to the most soul stirring, emotionally draining and historically accurate account of a man and his movement ever recorded on film, "King: A Filmed Record . . . Montgomery to Memphis," which will be screened throughout the Bay Area tomorrow night only in an exclusive benefit for the Martin Luther King, Jr. Special Fund to carry out the philanthropic program following the late Negro leader's principles and ideals in the use of non-violence.

On the Peninsula, this unforgettable documentary tracing Dr. King's activities from 1955 until his death in 1968 will be shown at the Park Theatre, Menlo Park, and Varsity Theater, Palo Alto, plus six houses in S.F. and northern California communities.

The three-hour film doesn't preach, or editorialize but Ely Landau has focused his camera on the man, his followers, the civil right marches in Selma, Alabama, to Washington, D.C., to the courthouse at Montgomery, Ala., through sermons and riots and senseless harassment and brutality so that the world might see with its own eyes the social and political climate from which he struggled to free his people. Theatrical touches have been added by the appearance of numerous famous entertainers reading from the Bible, from black poets, to historical documents and repeating the stirring words of presidents and philosophers.

SO DRAMATIC AND SIGNIFICANT IS THE FOOTAGE, that it could serve as a graduate course, at least an unbiased and factual primer for students studying civics, sociology, and the humanities. At least it wouldn't be an interpretation of King's philosophy, but on the scene reporting of events that couldn't be totally believed unless seen.

This is a family picture because its about people in our time, about individual rights and ideals put into motion by the love and devotion of a single spiritual leader. Catholic nuns, Episcopalian ministers, and Baptist clergymen walked in the front lines into the massed troops armed with clubs and gas masks. The camera doesn't dwell on the beatings or linger on excessive bloodshed, but you realize you're only seeing a fraction of the physical encounters and the sound of one skull being cracked leaves enough of an impression.

I don't know if using such luminaries as Joanne Woodward, Paul Newman, Anthony Quinn, James Earl Jones, Burt Lancaster, Lena Horne, Shelley Berman was a concession to commercialism or if these people were of some influence during those divided, dark days of his campaign, but they appear on the screen without identification and make a poetic and artistic addition to the dramatic structure of the feature.

There are other famous faces throughout, as when a plane-load of stars arrives to entertain the marchers during a night-long vigil in Montgomery, Ala. Dean Martin, Sidney Poitier, Harry Belafonte, Mike Nichols and Elaine May, Cliff Robertson, Tony Bennett, Sammy Davis, Jr. Those who participated in King's activities are identified: Dick Gregory marched, Mahalia Jackson sang, and when his time was ended by assassination in Memphis, Tenn., the nation's leaders paid tribute. Jackie Onassis, Marlon Brando, Nixon, Humphrey, Rockefeller were at the funeral, one that recalled J. F. Kennedy's in that his family and followers accompanied the casket borne on a beat-up old wooden wagon and led by two mules to the cemetery.

MEMBERS OF THE PRESS, TELEVISION AND RADIO MEDIA wept openly at the preview last week, and his speeches were applauded in the dark theater. This is a rare and touching tribute. I'm sure it happened also last night in the hundreds of theaters that have given up all profits, to donate time and talent to this unique event. Even the public relations firms, and thousands of countless contributors to the film have donated their services.

B-A Award Winners Told

Students in Westmoor High School's advanced auto shop classes are being given the chance to compete for $125,000 worth of scholarships in a nationwide auto mechanics contest, the Twenty-second Annual Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest.

Out of 115 students in these classes at Westmoor, only two will be chosen on the basis of intra-class competition, by auto shop instructor George Christenson. From there the two students will go on to the local Trouble Shooting contest which is being held this year in San Mateo on May 14.

The contest consists of two competitions: a written exam, which will count as 30 per cent of the team's score and a mechanical challenge making up the remaining 70 percent.

In this part of the competition, the local Plymouth dealers supply new cars for the students to work on. In each of these cars identical malfunctions are purposely placed under the hoods by Plymouth mechanics. The students must race the clock, as well as each other to find and repair the trouble.

Over 100 of these local contests are being held throughout the country this spring. Winning teams and instructors will receive an all-expense paid trip to the trouble shooting finals in Indianapolis, June 15, 16, and 17 at the famed "500" speedway. Here await the awards for the winners, $125,000 worth of scholarships and awards.

The purpose of the Trouble shooting program is one of recognition of outstanding auto mechanics students and to encourage them to seek a rewarding career as an automobile mechanic.

Westmoor students, who have complained in the past about lack of nice places to eat lunch, have decided to do something about the situation. They formed a group called "Action at Last" (AAL) to arrive at some solutions to the eating area problem.

Although the luncheon area would be designed primarily for eating, the "clever" students have pointed out its use as an additional teaching station.

Bank of America Achievement Awards were bestowed on 14 seniors at Westmoor High School according to Clayton Kollman, principal at Westmoor.

Plaques were awarded to four students for their outstanding achievements in a general field of study. In addition these students will have the opportunity of competing with top students from other schools for cash awards up to $1,000. Students achieving plaque status were Rick Guisti, Greg Adams, Dan Mundstock, and Jeane Wolff.

Rick Guisti, math and science plaque winner, has covered almost every aspect of high school life in his four years at Westmoor. He has represented Westmoor in the University of Santa Clara, San Luis Obispo, and National High School math competitions. He served as fall 1969 student body president. He also played end on Westmoor's championship football team. Rick is currently involved with school curriculum, as he is member of Westmoor's School Planning Council.

In the fine arts department, Greg Adams was the plaque recipient. Greg is a member of Westmoor's Stage Band. His trumpet playing and original composition, "Porcelain Glass," and arrangements, "Camel Back" and "Introduction," were main factors in Westmoor's Stage Band's trophy winning at the University of Nevada Stage Band Festival.

Dan Mundstock received his plaque in the liberal arts field. Dan represented Westmoor last summer at Boy's State. Dan is also active in track at Westmoor and has been a member of C.S.F.

Jeanne Wolff, a future major in home economics at U.C. Davis, received her plaque in vocational arts. Her involvement at Westmoor hovers around the Girls Athletic Association, German Club and the California Scholarship Federation. She and Rick are life members of the California Scholarship Federation.

TERRA NOVA HIGH TOPICS

By Anne Dryden

TERRA NOVA SENIORS were busy last week filling out the traditional and ever-popular Senior Polls, circulated this year by Tiger Tales, the school magazine. Senior classes were buzzing with sounds such as:

"Do you think Joanne will win for Most Likely to Succeed?"

"Who'd you vote for Best Legs?"

"But I can't write down my most embarrassing moment!"

Memorable and embarrassing moments, future plans and last wills of the class of 1970 will appear along with the poll results in Tiger Tales' senior edition in June.

SPEAKING OF TIGER TALES, the magazine staff is now working toward an early April deadline for their third edition. A report on the psychology of spirit week, a study of hitchhiking, a look at the district's newest high school, Serramonte, plus six pages of Terra Nova's best short stories and poetry will be featured in the upcoming edition.

TWO MEMBERS OF THE TERRA NOVA faculty took short vacations last month to attend out of state conferences. Joe George, head of the TN business department, was invited to the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. He left on February 24 by Navy aircraft and landed at Andrew Naval Air Station in Washington, D.C. He spent two days visiting the academy.

Thomas Mohr, TN counselor, attended the Biological Sciences Curriculum Studies Conference in Colorado on February 13. Ten high school teachers and ten college professors also flew there.

Yo-Yos Fly In S. Bruno Rec Contest

Yo-Yos were flying high and wide in the San Bruno War Memorial Center as boys and girls from throughout the city united for the annual city-wide yo-yo finals sponsored by the San Bruno Recreation Department.

Gary Bozin from Monte Verde playground took first place in the boys' division, with a cumulative point average of 45 points.

Lisa French from the Decima Allen playground program outscored all other girls by 25 points to take first place in the girls' division. Lisa and Gary will be eligible to compete in the regional Duncan Yo-Yo finals contest to be held on April 25.

George Washington High School (S.F.) graduates of 1940 are planning a reunion dinner-dance October 24 this year for their thirtieth anniversary. Anyone interested in planning or attending may contact Mrs. Miriam Davis, 463 Ninth Street No. 1, Daly City.

Mrs. Ruth Galindo, Park Beach and Recreation Department specialist, will be offering a six-week class in flower arranging, starting April 7 at the Fairmont West Recreation Center on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

LOUANNE HEATH'S DATEBOOK

WHILE THERE will be no children's faces in evidence at the second annual St. Andrew's Parish Lasagne Dinner the students in Sister Esther's Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Class will play a part in the preparations for the evening's funfest.

Mrs. Kathy Luhrs, one of the co-coordinators, reports that all the children have been bringing in the ingredients for Sister Esther's delectable recipe. Next Friday Sister and a committee of parish women will combine all the children's contributions into the special sauce their parents will be enjoying that evening.

Camp Fire girls, as a community service, are taking an interest in the ecology of the area.

He'll Do His Time In Another Jail

A North County bookie sentenced to six months in jail Wednesday was granted permission to serve the time in another county because of "fear of retaliation" if he were locked up in the San Mateo County Jail.

He is George G. Cummings, an old-time bookie who "turned state's evidence" in a 1967 trial and swore that he paid bribes to Sheriff's Capt. Alvin J. Prara to "protect" his bookmaking operations.

Judge Kane said he felt Cummings and his lawyer, David Brown, had expressed a "bona fide concern" about Cummings' well-being in county jail.

"I don't share their concern," the jurist explained later, "but I think it was expressed in good faith. I see nothing wrong with him serving the sentence in another jail, if that can be worked out."

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson made a rare court appearance Wednesday to argue—unsuccessfully, as it turned out—for a prison term for Cummings. Judge Kane imposed a suspended prison sentence and ordered Cummings to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of $1,500 as a condition of three years' probation.

In the Prara case, the 65-year-old Cummings was granted immunity from prosecution to testify against Prara, who was exonerated by a jury and restored to his job in good standing with full back pay and privileges.

Judge Kane granted Cummings a stay until next Monday before starting the jail term. Presumably arrangements for incarceration in another county were worked out in the meantime.

Five other defendants, members of a North County gaming ring headed by Cummings, were let off with fines despite Sorenson's pleas that they all go to jail. The fines ranged from $200 to $750.

In arguing for a prison sentence for Cummings, Sorenson declared that bookmaking flourishes because the courts have not imposed stiff enough sentences on bookies. And where there is bookmaking, Sorenson told the court, there is the "likelihood of corruption among law enforcement officers," or a suspicion on the part of the public that corruption exists.

"The records of this county will show," Sorenson said, "that this defendant has testified in this very court that he in fact did offer and pay bribes to a law enforcement officer within the past few years."

Noting that bookies historically claim police protection whether they have it or not, Sorenson called bookmaking a "cancer in the community" and a "real insult to law enforcement and the good citizens of this community."

Sorenson said that at least in the past 25 or 30 years no bookie has been sentenced to prison in this county, with the exception of one man who was a parole violator.

"It is time that this most serious sentence (prison) be imposed," the district attorney declared, "not only to deter George Cummings, but other people who might be inclined to engage in bookmaking."

Brown argued that imposition of a prison sentence would "run the risk of being hypocritical."

"Churches have lotteries and clubs sponsor this sort of thing," the attorney declared.

Brown and lawyers for other defendants also cited the "hypocrisy" of allowing betting at race tracks but not elsewhere.

In disagreeing on the prison sentence demanded by Sorenson, Judge Kane said he was motivated in part by Cummings' age and added that he felt the six-months term would be an adequate deterrent.

Fines meted out to other defendants, who handled football, baseball, and basketball betting cards for Cummings in such places as barber shops, bowling alleys and bars: Henry Wiles, $250; Dorothy L. Tenner, $200; George A. Frugoli, $250; James L. Gunter, $750, and Olive Jones, $200.

The cases of John F. Kellogg and Ernest Nebolini were continued to April 7.

HERE WE ARE at the Ben Franklin School as one-third of the 300 eighth grade class students brush past on their way off the school grounds to protest something they call "discriminatory suspensions." It seems the kids are upset because punishment is meted out to various groups in other than uniform fashion. Principal Ed McIntoch talked the students back to class after promising to "rap" with the young protesters after Easter vacation.

WE WERE SADDENED to learn of the death of Maude Hanselman, longtime library trustee for the city of Daly City. Only last week, Maude had turned in her resignation to the city council because of illness. In her last communication with the council she noted how far the libraries had progressed over the years and credited everyone for the accomplishment, except the one person she should have — Maude Hanselman. The letter was submitted "with deepest regrets" and accepted by Mayor Bud Lyett and his colleagues with even deeper regrets. Confronted with the news of her death, Mayor Lyett sadly commented "what can you say about a great person like Maude?" The lack of words says enough. Somehow lengthy praises aren't needed for Maude.

ATTENTION JESD TRUSTEES — We can overlook Olympia School Principal Mrs. I. AS REPORTED IN THIS column many months ago, Daly City council Candidate McRobert (Mac) Stewart did indeed resign from the directorship of the Westlake Subdivision Improvement Association (WSIA) at their last public meeting. Although nothing in the WSIA's rules dictate such action is necessary, the association has always maintained a sort of "neutral attitude" regarding local politics. Stewart said he recognized this fact and stepped down. President Tony Zidich made it perfectly clear when he said last week "I knew of Mr. Stewart's intention some months ago and no force from within or without was used in his decision." But apparently even this action, coupled with Zidich's statement, will fall on at least two deaf ears in the community.

'Getting Down To The Business Of Learning'

By WILL E. THOMAS
Post City Editor

Jefferson High School District trustees last week unanimously agreed to "investigate" a proposed four-point program that Serramonte High School administrators, faculty and parents hope things will bolster human relations there.

Principal Louis Martin noted that students at the new Daly City campus, described as racially tense last week, are "getting down to the business of learning again."

One girl was hurt and a number of smaller incidents were reported on the campus previously and the school had been closed a day and a half the previous week because officials feared an eruption following an "altercation" involving a white student and a black student.

Noting that Serramonte's problems could best be solved "by our administration, our faculty and our students, with the help of the community," Martin relayed to trustees proposals formulated by some 15 teachers and an ad hoc committee of parents:

1. A large number of teachers and administrators undergo leadership training immediately.
2. Professional assistance be provided to the school in the areas of teacher-student small-group discussions, parent-student small group discussions, and parent-to-parent small-group discussion.

3. A full time para-professional person be hired to work in liaison capacity between school and the community.

4. That the district seriously consider the services a full time human relations expert to serve the district in the area of curriculum, in-service training programs, teachers and students, and to work with various agencies serving the district.

He asked the board of a committee last night, and extracted before a crowd of some 200 persons the promise the proposals would be "investigated."

The agreement was unanimous, and came after views had been expressed by some 13 members of the community—most of whom endorsed the recommendations coming from Serramonte.

He asked the administration to contact "human relations experts" and be ready to report back at the next board meeting—yesterday. Morgan later said some contacts already had been made and a report would be ready.

Since the disruption, Martin noted, "a steady improvement" at the school has been evidenced, but he also acknowledged, "We have a long way to go to solve our problems."

"The modular schedule is new to us," Martin explained, "as it is in the case of most high schools that attempt this forward-looking education concept, we have made our share of mistakes this year."

He added, "Probably our biggest error is that many of our students need to spend more time under direct supervision."

Martin said "immediate steps" are being taken to "take care of this problem."

"We at Serramonte," its principal continued, "perhaps have been guilty of being too accommodating to our students because of the manner in which we all came together in the beginning."

Some students have "wrongly interpreted" that fact, "much to our sorrow," Martin declared.

"Perhaps we are asking our students to run," he thought, "before they can walk."

Having touched on the "negative side" of modular scheduling, Martin then cited a positive view: "We find that for many of our students, approximately 95 per cent, the schedule is in fact working, and I see evidence of this in our honor roll where for both A and B students there has been a substantial increase of students on the honor roll compared to last year."

He emphasized that Serramonte students are "achieving more or less time, and our teachers are working harder than they ever have before."

Ron Miguel of the Serramonte Association, made up of parents and teachers, supported the proposals, adding professional assistance is needed to do a correct, long-lasting job, beneficial to the students.

Support also came from Albert Jenkin of the Daly City Information and Referral Center, as well as Mrs. Cathy Smallwood, a black citizen, who advised, "The main problem lies with the community — with parents."

Dr. Sanford A. Marcus, the leader of the Westlake region residents who worked hard, but in vain, to keep Serramonte from being constructed, acknowledged publicly he was "eating my words."

He described Serramonte as "something very fine." He tended to doubt that most of Serramonte's problems were racial in nature, asserting that incidents seen lately were "blown out of proportion."

Marcus explained that in his opinion, "We have just gone through a rather critical period in the growing up history of Daly City during the past couple of weeks. We have witnessed the culmination of a lot of feelings that have lain beneath the surface and we have witnessed the greatness come to the fore in the face of the short of emergency."

He said, too, "Many of the feelings that have been heightened are the result of attempting to make a high school situation a microcosm of all the problems of society and all the problems of our community, and expecting the kids themselves to work out those problems."

Marcus pointed out that "what we have succeeded in doing is creating a lot of nervousness at an age when these young people are in the process of formulating their own attitudes and opinions and perhaps not able to bear the strain that we, as parents and adults, as taxpayers and voters, Americans and as citizens of the world, have dumped on their young shoulders."

JAMES HALLEY

Post-Times Columnist

Right To Revolt?

"We must realize that today's Establishment is the new George III. Whether it will continue to adhere to his tactics, we do not know. If it does, the redress, honored in tradition, is also revolution." These words appear in a recent volume authored by William O. Douglas entitled, "Points of Rebellion" (Random House).

The book outlines a legion of current grievances and suggests that a vast restructuring of laws and institutions is needed if we are to avoid revolution.

These words come from a strange source. As a Justice of the Supreme Court, Douglas must know that our constitutional system is based on law and he, himself, has often leaned heavily upon the "Law of the Land" clause of the Federal Constitution in imposing the will of the court.

Talk of revolt in this nation is not new. The Whiskey Rebellion of 1794, Shay's Rebellion in 1786-1787, the War Between the States, including internal turmoil within the north in that period, and the upheaval of the '30s, all included talk and acts of rebellion. But as Douglas states, the current unrest is unique. In many ways, it is the most serious challenge to our constitutional system.

Douglas's reference to George III is no accident. For those speaking of revolution customarily relate acts of insurrection to some kind of "right" to revolt and claim that if we had such a right in the first place, it still exists. The answer to this claim requires forthright analysis of our own revolution, which we have authenticated and legitimized for almost 200 years. The lingering impression is of flags, white wigs and colonial elegance. We forget blood, death and direct use of arms. Two centuries of press and public relations have created a halo over the circumstances of our birth.

The result has been the glorification not only of our revolution and its purposes but also of some kind of underlying right to revolt. It is bitter humor to find the new generation using our own overstatement against us. But the parallel is not real. The historical and legal differences between 1770 and 1970 make the comparison odious.

We forget the extraordinary events that occurred in the decade that followed the surrender at Yorktown. In these years a government was structured which contains greater hope for freedom than any that has previously existed. It is embodied in the Constitution and its amendments. No divine right despot governs here, but elected representatives of the people. In practice, these are subject to election, recall, impeachment and various public pressures. Within such a system the claimed urgency of revolt seems feigned.

One of the declared purposes of the Federal Constitution is to "insure domestic tranquility." It also states that Congress is "To provide for calling forth the Militia to execute the

A Sad Story

ONCE AGAIN Anne Boleyn's sad story is placed before the public. This time in a movie with the title, but not the poetry of Maxwell Anderson's lovely play.

Throughout the movie Richard Burton plays Henry VIII — drinking and overeating and blinking his eyes in the best Burton fashion — with a performance that has won Burton an Academy Award nomination. In beautifully designed costumes, Burton is a bit punch-drunk, as Henry must have been when he strutter through England declaring love for Anne and death for his flunkies.

Truly Burton's performance may be closer to the real character of Henry VIII at forty-two than that of many actors who have played the part. Burton's Henry is not bombastic, not yet crusty, and not yet the fat disgusting old man that Henry became. It is a part made to order for Richard Burton.

As Anne Boleyn, Genevieve Bujold is more doll faced than many authors have pictured the woman who kept England's lustiest king on a string for six years. She is sweet, yet clever. Her performance has attracted enough attention to receive an Academy Award nomination for the best actress of the year.

MISS BUJOLD'S ANNE is not an ingenue. She makes no attempt to taunt "the royal bull," and when she finally gives herself to him, she does so in the one moment of spontaneous emotion that the movie allows her.

One of the best exchanges of dialogue came after the first showing in San Francisco. As two old women came away, one of them said, "Weren't they cruel in those days?" "Yes," the other replied, "We'd be better off if they used those methods on the hippies today."

"But, Madam," a hippie who was nearby called, "No one worried about the hippies in those days. It was the establishment that got killed."

"Anne of a Thousand Days" is good entertainment in the tradition of "Lion in Winter" and "Becket." It proves once again Sir Arthur Bryant's contention that English history is the most romantic in the world.

"NOR DOES THE LIVING influence English history end with the Commonwealth." It is a history filled with "incessant, challenging warfare of the races." It is an intermixture of "the matter-of-fact with the poetic; of love of home with the itch to adventure; of business aptitude with fantasy, speculation and idealism." From the romance of English history comes a continued flow of motion pictures and books to entertain and charm the world.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Post

In response to the letter from Tina Harrington, a senior at Westmoor High School, which appeared in the March 18 issue of The Post, I feel that her question, "What's come over this world?", warrants an answer. People are not being human, honest or real.

While it may be an over-used expression, I feel that there is a genuine lack of effort on the part of all people to try to communicate with one another. Humanity is playing the age-old game of name-calling (Communist, hippy, hawk, dove, etc.). This game however, extends beyond mere name calling. So rash are the actions of the "revolutionaries" and "reactionaries" that nothing is being accomplished. This is but a symptom of a larger problem. When a person begins to see only one side of the picture and refuses the other view as absolutely ridiculous, that person can no longer relate to those who hold the other view as being correct. This is obvious. Such I believe is the case with this world. When people can't relate to one another, they fight.

Why, I ask, can't everyone sit down and decide that to ignore or fight each other is senseless, even if they cannot agree on anything else? Is this so idealistic? Is this kind of thinking so wrong or bad?

I imagine that many people will rationalize an answer to this question and say that it is the other person who is not willing, not themselves. To them I say look in a mirror some time, frightening as it may sound. I am sure that it might be a truly enlightening experience.

Finally, I wish to make one point clear concerning some of the feats and concerns over the educational system expressed by the student in her letter. She may have a right to believe what she has written, but her views are not worth a cent to myself or anyone else who would like to solve the problems of the schools unless she substantiates her claims with facts. I see nothing in her letter to indicate that her fears about Westmoor or the people in it are derived from any logical deduction based on fact. I find it hard to believe that anyone would accept her claims without checking into the cold hard facts first, yet some people evidently do. I would suggest that you check into what this student claims — I think that you may come up with a different impression of the educational system than if you took it for granted that these claims are true.

'Courts Doing The Job'

Judge Cohn
Blasts Critics

The fact that the state's confinement facilities are "bursting at the seams" is a clear indication that the courts are doing their job, Mel Cohn, presiding judge of the San Mateo County Superior Court, said Thursday.

Cohn, speaking to the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce membership, disputed those who felt the courts have been too lenient with criminals and pointed to the overcrowding of county and state jails to support his statements.

He predicted that within three months after it opens its doors, the new county jail annex will be outmoded and unable to handle the flow of criminals.

In some cases it has proven beneficial both from a taxpayers' and rehabilitation standpoint, to place criminals on probation rather than send them to jail.

"We might be able to teach (the criminal) something (on probation) otherwise we could lose him," Cohn explained.

And he did not think drug users should be handed stiff sentences for first time offenses. The current law provides that a user could be sentenced from one to ten years.

While Cohn said he might be inclined to take it easy on users "sellers are another matter."

The nation's courts are a citizens' last hope and judges should devote their complete time to them and should not concern themselves with looking back over their "political shoulder," Cohn said.

Cohn explained the functions of the superior court and noted that while jury trials were running between 35-40 cases per month, the waiting period will soon be cut from 16 months waiting period (from memo to trial date) down to 12 months.

The presiding judge is elected by his fellow judges on an annual basis. There are now 12 superior court judges in the county.

A 'Puzzling' DC Stabbing Being Probed

Daly City police were today investigating what they described as a "puzzling incident" centering around the minor stabbing of a 16-year-old boy at Westmoor Park Clubhouse Thursday morning.

Officer Art Glass was called to nearby Mary's Help Hospital about noon to check on a youth who had walked into the hospital for treatment of a stab wound in the abdomen.

When the victim, Harvest Martinez, of 601 Hanover Street, Daly City spotted the policeman he fled from the hospital with only his trousers on.

Officer Glass finally succeeded in stopping the youth some distance from the hospital and returned him for treatment.

Upon questioning, the boy would not elaborate on what had happened—only that four other youth had jumped him in the clubhouse and stabbed him.

The wound was superficial and Martinez was treated and released.

Westborough Bid Approved

A bid well below the engineer's estimate of the cost of the Westborough Boulevard extension in South San Francisco was received Wednesday by the County Board of Supervisors.

Piombo Construction Company of San Carlos submitted a low bid of $1,875,682, well below the estimate of $2,012,242. Seven bids were received in all, ranging to $2,676,197.

Deputy County Engineer S. H. Cantwell said he probably will recommend that the board award the contract next Tuesday.

The new road will extend for 1.15 miles between Junipero Serra Boulevard and El Camino Real. Also included is a short stretch on the alignment of Chestnut Avenue between El Camino Real and Colma Creek.

The construction will feature a major storm drain system. Twelve-mile creek is to be diverted into a culvert under the roadway.

Delayed for years by wrangling between county and South San Francisco officials, the project will be part of a major cross-county route. It will hook up with the existing Westborough Boulevard, which connects with Sharp Park Road leading to the coast.

South San Francisco High School baseball coach Bob Brian summed up this year's North Peninsula League baseball race in one short sentence Friday.

"It's going to be a good, close league," Brian noted.

The 1970 race got underway yesterday with the Warriors not quite getting off the way that Brian would like them as Westmoor claimed a 5-1 victory at Orange Park. And that was the biggest rout as the rest were closer.

In other opening NPL action, El Camino whipped Jefferson 6-4, Terra Nova downed Serramonte, 2-0, and Half Moon Bay edged Oceana, 3-2, in eight innings.

South San Francisco took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the third when Al Goldstein scored on an error. However, the Rams came battling right back to score twice in the top of the fifth inning on a Warrior error.

Westmoor claimed the only earned runs in the top of the seventh when the Rams added three insurance tallies. Gary Stoller walked with the bases loaded to force in Steve Murray and then Ed Nessel banged out a single to drive across two more runs.

In the Half Moon Bay-Oceana game, the Cougars Dave Lee was hit by a pitched ball with the bases loaded in the bottom of the eighth inning to force in Jim Emery with the winning run.

The Cougars rallied for two runs in the bottom of the eighth after Oceana had gone ahead, 2-1. Ramacciotti singled home Skip Gianoca for the other Half Moon Bay score.

For Jefferson, it was a matter of getting started a little too late as the Indians spotted the Colts a 6-0 lead after two innings of play at Marchbank Field.

The Colts' Gary Shingletown singled in one run in the first inning and his two-run triple in the second inning highlighted El Camino's four-run uprising.

Jefferson scored twice in the sixth and left the bags loaded while scoring one more in the bottom of the seventh. The Indians left a total of 13 men on base.

Bob McClure, one of the mainstays of the defending Central coast Section champions from Pacifica, pitched a neat three-hitter. He scattered three harmless singles over the seven innings on the Coastside.

His teammates punched across two runs in the fourth on a two-tally double by Bud Papadakis and McClure made them stand up all the way.

McClure struck out only two and walked five. He hit two Regents as well.

T.N. Splashes Way To Win Over Oceana

Terra Nova swim coach Bill Belenis follows the coaches' Golden Rule to the letter—Avoid predictions and be nice to the other guy.

Belenis' mermen beat Oceana 62-32 Thursday afternoon in Tiger waters, but his reaction was cautious.

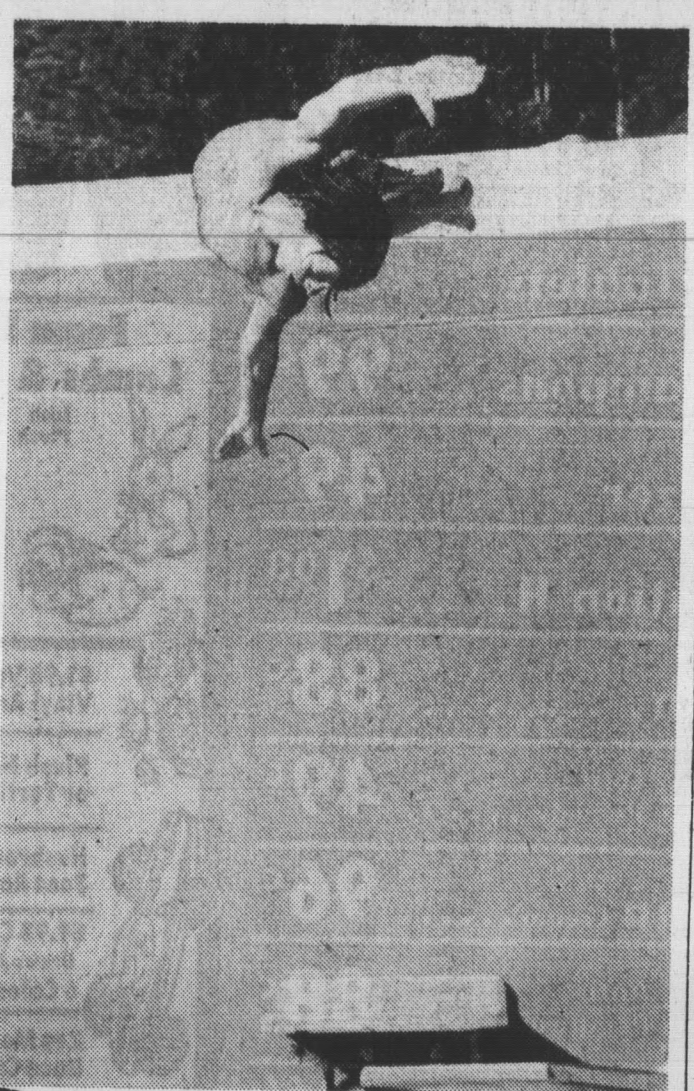

"We have a long row to hack yet if we're going to get the championship," he said. But he's thinking.

Oceana competed with a tiny team; five boys earned the entire Sharks' output. Howard Lum streaked to the best time of the meet for the visitors, an unofficial league record 2:01.6 in the 200 freestyle.

"Those kids from Oceana were really outstanding," Belenis said. "They really put out. Any time five kids can get 32 points, that's pretty good."

Belenis says his swimmers are improving. "Steve Morgan took the 200 individual medley with his best time of the year (2:21.2) and John Reiwerth had his best time so far in the 100 freestyle (57.4)."

Homers Help Track Win Knights Past For Terra Falcons, 8-7 Nova Team

Baseball success at Hillsdale may live and die by the bomb in 1970.

The Knights, 4-7 so far in non-league play, inched by Crestmoor Friday in a practice game, 8-7, in San Mateo on the strength of three long home runs, two of them by Pete Kaine. Bob Hero hit the other.

Kaine drove in a total of four runs with the pair of round-trippers while Hero's blast drove in two more. All three of the shots to deep left center came in the fourth and fifth innings in which the Knights tallied all eight of their runs.

It was not a good day for pitchers. Crestmoor man handled Knight hurling for eight hits and seven runs. The Falcons were aided greatly by eight Hillsdale errors (including five passed balls by the Knight catcher. Only three of the Crestmoor runs were earned.

The game was not a Mid-Peninsula League contest since league play won't begin in that circuit until April 1.

Terra Nova's Tiger trackmen opened their 1970 North Peninsula League season in style Friday afternoon in Pacifica with a one-sided 88-48 victory over Daly City's Serramonte.

Although none of the marks was spectacular Mark Champnays of the Tigers did manage to capture two first and a second.

In the frosh-soph competition, Terra Nova won out again, 83½-50½.

WE HATE TO UPSET those amateur baseball historians who believe that the seeds for the game were sown by the English or Alexander Cartwright or Abner Doubleday, but now that we're nearing the end of spring training we feel it only right to inform one and all—no matter how much it may hurt—that there is a possibility that a very crude form of the game existed in ancient Mexico.

Effigies of ball players found in grave sites in the Valley of Mexico indicate that ball games in the rubber producing region along the Gulf Coast probably took place as long as 4000 years ago.

A violent game (what else is new?) played with a large wad of raw latex, this ancient Mexican recreation is believed to have originally been a religious exercise.

Paved courts upon which the game was played have been found from Honduras as far north as Arizona, as well as the many found in Mexico.

Generally, the courts resembled two fat Ts laid end to end with sloping parallel walls along each side. Size varied 25 to 50 feet wide (with wider "end zones") to 100 to 650 feet long.

OBJECT OF THE GAME was to accumulate points by maneuvering the ball (with the hips, buttocks or knees), with the aid of carom shots, into an unreturnable position in the enemy's backcourt. Points were lost by letting the ball touch the ground or go out of bounds.

In some versions of the game, stone rings were suspended vertically from the side wall above the players' heads. If a player could put the ball through the hoop, his team won regardless of the score at the time of the hoop. This was a rare occurrence, however, because the balls weighed about five pounds and the hoops were virtually the same size as the balls.

The number of players of a team varied from a few to 11, with no substitutes.

Now, you might be saying that this game sounds more like a predecessor of soccer, basketball, jai-alai or lacrosse rather than baseball.

But, and we've saved the best for the last, there has also been discovered a variation of this game which was played with bats.

Ancient clay figures of men with clubs have been found in western Mexico. What makes it even more interesting, is that they are always holding the bats with their hands spread apart, just like Ty Cobb used to do it.

We always knew that old Ty knew something about hitting that nobody else knew.

LOCAL NOTES — We attended the annual Mission High School Baseball Alumni banquet the other night, and as usual, almost everybody we met who went to that great Mission District athletic school, now lives in Daly City or Pacifica.

There are so many of them, some are neighbors and didn't discover the fact until they met at the banquet in San Francisco. Ray Santiago, who played third base for the Bears in 1950 and recently finally allowed himself to be married at age 38 (As Ray said, "It's better late"), just moved into house on Skyline, near the Skyline Shopping Center. Jim Kazarian (infield, catcher, 1955), who lives right around the corner, told Santiago he wouldn't be lending him any sugar, because with his hands, he'd drop it in the street before he got it back home.

And Joe Montross (infield, '56), has also gone local, as part owner of J. and J. Plumbing in South San Francisco.

The Mission Baseball Banquet, incidentally, has gotten so popular that now basketball and football players from such unlikely institutions as Sacred Heart and Balboa and Commerce are showing up. And being accepted. Which shows how the years can mellow athletes.

We can't think of a lead-in to bowling, so won't try, but we think it's right and proper here to credit local Mike Cristofani, the young man who has been grabbing so many headlines in the bowling sections of the local weeklies and metropolitan dailies.

That Cristofani is able to bowl so well isn't so surprising as that he's able to bowl at all. In the summer of 1963, Cristofani, getting ready to enter his senior year at Terra Nova High School, dove into the tricky surf at Pacifica's Pedro Beach and broke his neck.

HAD IT NOT BEEN for the alertness of fellow Terra Novans George Feist and Eddie Sohl, who carried him from the surf, the Terra Nova varsity swimmer might have been pulled out to sea and drowned.

At that, it seemed as if his athletic career was over. Mike spent nine weeks in Peninsula Hospital. But he was ready for the North Peninsula League swimming season, and not only participated but won more medals than any other Tiger swimmer that '64 season.

An enthusiastic reporter for the student publication, Tiger Tales, commented on the feat: "Mike is a walking miracle." We wonder what that reporter would write now if he knew what kind of bowling scores Cristofani's been piling up.

Walking miracle wouldn't be sophomore enough. One of Cristofani's 1964 graduating classmates isn't doing so well. That would be Marty Coll, who held out on the Giants long enough to prompt a letter from the front office informing Marty that negotiations are at an end.

Word is that Marty is hoping for a trade. Philadelphia has shown some interest. So has the biggest, most powerful team in the world . . . the United States Army. Marty has been ordered to report for his pre-induction physical.

On the brighter side, Jefferson's 6-5 senior shooting sensation, Pinky Smith, finished the season as Northern California's fifth best scoring prep, with a 27.2 average.

TAG ENDS: Now we can die (Note to those who don't like this column: don't take that literally), for we've heard everything.

Renzo Casadei, manager of former European lightweight champ Pedro Carrasco, said last week that he had rejected an offer for Carrasco to fight world champion Ismael Laguna because, "Carrasco would have no chance to win."

We imagine that Casadei might have added, "Laguna would murder us."

AND FINALLY, as much as we respect the Knicks' Willis Reed, we just don't see how he could have been considered the NBA's Most Valuable Player with Jerry West in the league, picking up for the great Will Chamberlain and virtually single-handedly bringing the Lakers not only into the playoffs, but almost into a division title. That, fans, is value.

Swann Leads Triple Win

Lynn Swann, who hasn't had too much athletic exertions lately, came out of his three-week layoff in grand style Thursday afternoon leading his Serra High School track team to its first win of the season.

The senior jack-of-all-trades and master of most, celebrated his return to the athletic picture by winning three events as the Padres downed both Menlo and Archbishop Mitty High Schools in a practice triangular meet.

Nell Norton Sugar 'n' Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Here we are coming up on Easter Sunday and just a short time ago it was Ash Wednesday. No wonder I'm still sewing frantically on Easter dresses, rushing about looking for shoes and a purse and trying to decide what kind of scarf to buy to complete Terri's ensemble. How can I get things done when seven weeks rush by so quickly???

I may be tardy in finishing up the creations for the Easter parade, but I have planned ahead for serving suggestions when that parade is marching toward the dining room table.

Most of us have little difficulty in planning an entree, it's the extras that cause us to ponder. This delicious and eye-appealing relish adds flavor and color to the meal and goes especially well with ham or lamb.

PINEAPPLE RELISH

- 1 large can pineapple chunks (2½ size)
- ¾ cup vinegar
- 1 cup sugar
- 6 whole cloves
- 2 three-inch pieces cinnamon
- 2 whole allspice
- dash salt
- green food coloring

Drain the pineapple. In a large saucepan combine the three-fourths cup vinegar, one cup sugar, six cloves, two pieces cinnamon, six allspice and salt. Cook over medium heat for 10 minutes. Add the drained pineapple and bring to a hard boil. Remove from heat and add the green food coloring. Cool, cover and store in refrigerator.

NOTE: Be judicious in adding the food coloring. A drop, stir and add more if needed. You want it to be a cool, springy green.

I promised you a dessert that uses those wonderful Girl Scout cookies. Here 'tis.

STRAWBERRY FLUFF

- 3 packages Scot-Teas cookies, crushed
- 1 basket strawberries, cleaned and halved
- 1 package strawberry gelatin
- 1½ cups hot water
- one-third cup sugar
- 1 large can evaporated milk

Spread half the crushed Scot-Teas in a 9x13x2-inch baking dish. Prepare the filling in the following manner.

Add the one and one-fourth cups hot water and the one-third cup sugar to the strawberry gelatin, stir until completely dissolved. Place in refrigerator until cold — and syrupy.

In the meantime, pour the large can evaporated milk into an ice cube tray and return to freezer. Allow it to begin to freeze. (To the point where little fingers of ice appear on the edge of the tray).

Using a large bowl combine the milk and syrupy gelatin mixture and beat at high speed on mixer until thick and fluffy. Fold in the halved strawberries and pour over cookie crumbs. Sprinkle the remaining cookie crumbs over the top and return to refrigerator to set. Serves 12.

This makes an attractive dessert, pink and frothy, nicely suited for spring. If you want to decorate it for Easter, you can whip a half pint cream and add just a drop of green food coloring. Place a generous amount on top of each serving and arrange three pastel jelly beans in each pale green nest.

A few years ago I found this recipe from Betty Crocker that turned out cookies that looked like fancy Easter eggs. They are as easy as 1-2-3 to make.

1—Wrap a cherry, date, nut or chocolate in cookie dough. Bake.

2—Dip in icing after baking, you can vary your icings, using either chocolate, white or assorted colors.

3—Top with coconut, nuts, colored sugar, chocolate pieces or any other colorful topping.

BON BON COOKIES

- ½ cup soft butter
- ¾ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 Tablespoon vanilla
- 1½ cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 350 degrees (moderate). Combine the half cup butter, three-fourths cup sifted confectioners' sugar and one tablespoon vanilla. Blend in the one and one-half cups sifted flour and one-eighth teaspoon salt by hand. Add food coloring, if desired.

Wrap level tablespoon dough around filling. Bake one-inch apart on ungreased baking sheet 12 to 15 minutes, until set but not brown. Dip tops of warm cookies in icing. Decorate. Makes 20 to 25 cookies.

ICING

- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 2 Tablespoons cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- food coloring

Combine the one cup sugar with the two tablespoons cream and teaspoon vanilla. Divide into small dishes, and add food colorings.

For chocolate add one square (1 ounce) melted chocolate and one-fourth cup cream.

These cookies are so pretty and tasty they could stand alone as dessert. However since they make a comparatively small amount, you might like to serve them with ice cream. Select your ice cream flavors with an eye for Easter and spring colors. Pink (strawberry), Yellow (lemon), Green (mint or pistachio).

Soaking of ice cream I think all of us have gone through the harrowing experience of trying to scoop hard frozen ice cream from the container as our guests wait for their dessert. A good way to avoid this last minute struggle is to scoop it out ahead, shape into small balls, place in plastic bags and return to the freezer. There it waits in attractive and easy to handle form until dessert time.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

COUPON BOOK PROMOTIONS ARE NOT ILLEGAL.
However, over the years the Better Business Bureau has experienced much trouble with promotional photographic coupon offers.

Any number of such concerns have come and gone leaving disillusioned customers who failed to receive the portraits to which their coupons supposedly entitled them to.

Coupon book promotions are as a rule not "good-will customer bringers," and much public ill will has resulted for reputable customer-conscious business because of their inability to redeem coupons.

The consumer has a right to be disgruntled when the advertiser refuses to honor his coupon. He had purchased the coupon book in good faith believing that the participating firms knew what they were doing when they made the offer and would stand back of their commitments.

It has been the experience of the Better Business Bureaus that business firms too seldom adequately investigate this type of promotion before they permit their names to be used.

The cost of a coupon promotion should first be carefully considered by the business before a contract is signed.

Is the business financially able to give away the products or services named in the promotion should every coupon be redeemed?

Could a sudden and overwhelming volume of business be successfully taken care of?

Regular customers sometimes react to the heavy periods caused by the coupon holders and merchants have been known to have difficulty in handling the additional non-paying customers along with their regular cash customers. In many cases coupon holders have to wait until the cash customers are served before they can make an appointment.

The profit making potential of coupon books should not be over-estimated. Experience has shown that many coupon holders are basically bargain hunters who are interested only in getting "something for nothing."

It is a gamble that a certain percentage of customers will return after using the coupon or will purchase other merchandise.

Read the contract carefully. Any verbal commitments, conditions or limitations made by the salesman should be clearly and specifically stated. The contract should limit the number of coupon books to be printed and distributed. Promoters have been known to print and sell as many as 5,000 coupon books providing for free services from small firms. Some firms have actually been put out of business by such involvement.

Don't expect to locate the coupon promoter who over prints. This type sells the books, closes the telephone boiler sales room and skips town, leaving the advertiser to face the music.

If you intend to put conditions on the time when the coupon may be redeemed or restrict the size, type, color, etc. of the product, be sure to get these conditions printed on the coupon or you will defeat the promotional purpose of the coupon book.

Another Judge For County Is Sought

The state legislature will be asked to create one additional superior court judge for the county and three more municipal court judges—if the State Judicial Council approves.

Although county judges have asked for the additional judges, County Manager M. D. Tarshes told the board of supervisors last week he was not giving the request "unqualified support."

Noting that such requests must be reviewed by the state Judicial Council, Tarshes said the council measures the work of local courts and the work of other courts in the state before approving such requests.

Deadline for submission of drafts of proposed bills creating additional judgeships to the Judicial Council is March 30, and to the state legislature April 3, Tarshes reported.

"Do we have the space?" Supervisor Gerald F. Day inquired.

Tarshes said that with an addition to the Northern Municipal Court about to be completed and with the addition to the Hall of Justice in Redwood City scheduled for completion next year, the county should have enough room in these two locations.

Admires 'Egg Tree'

MR. AND MRS. PAT DUNPHY, 856C Antoinette Lane, South San Francisco, receive two tickets for a free Hawaiian vacation by Dr. Al Marsden of Marsden's Gifts, president of the Westborough Square Merchants Association. The couple's names were drawn from over 30,000 submitted during the shopping center's grand opening on March 5-6-7. Many other awards were given by the Westborough merchants at that time, with the trip to Hawaii, sponsored by the shopping center in conjunction with Western Airlines, as the grand prize. (Post Photo.)

PARENTS at Thomas Edison School in Daly City under the direction of Mrs. Georgina Nyhan (center), and her co-chairmen, Mrs. Monroe Schwartz (right) and Mrs. William Hunt (left), have been working steadily on making materials for use by children as well as teachers in conjunction with Language Arts program at school. A workshop is held monthly and many of the interested parents work together, and have prepared reading aids on many subjects which are being used in all classes at the school.

A Bright, Light Brunch Is A Refreshing Change Of Pace After Parties

Brunch is for Sunday. Or Saturday. For the days you sleep in and wake up hungrier. And, it's a charming way to entertain.

A bright light brunch is a refreshing change of pace from evening parties. A combination of breakfast and lunch, it may be served any time between ten-thirty and one o'clock. Quickly, with a minimum of fuss.

Let informality be the key.

note. Deep-toned linens, bright ceramic ware and a cheerful bouquet of garden flowers set the mood.

Thanks to the ease and elegance of frozen prepared foods and the helping hand of chafing dishes and electric serving trays, the hostess is unharried and relaxed. Stouffer Foods is ready to help with the menu. Here are some bright brunch ideas with frozen foods.

Marmalade That Bears Repeating

Repeated by request.
Tomato Juice Crackers
Ham and Eggs
Muffins Pear-Apricot
Marmalade
Beverage
PEAR-APRICOT MARMALADE

1 cup very finely cut unpeeled orange (1 very large or 2 small oranges)
1 1/2 cups water
Prepared Pears, see below
1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) unpeeled apricot halves, drained and halved
5 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
Cook orange pulp and peel in the water until peel is very soft; do not drain; combine with remaining ingredients. Cook rapidly, stirring often, until there is very little free liquid. (Marmalade will thicken somewhat after cooking so don't overcook.) Quickly pour hot marmalade to about 1/8-inch of top of sterilized pint or half-pint wide-mouth preserving jars. Wipe off any spillover on threads or top of jars. Put dome lid (rinsed in hot water) on jars; screw bands tight. Makes about 3 pints.

Prepared Pears: Peel, core and halve 1 1/2 to 2 pounds pears; cut into 1/2-inch wide lengthwise slices; cut slices crosswise into 2 or 3 pieces; measure 4 cups, shaking cup to settle pieces.

Stewing Veal A Delicious Easy Way

An easy and delicious way to fix stewing veal.
Phyll's Veal Fricassee Rice
Green Peas Salad Bowl
Spanish Cream with Mandarin Oranges

PHYLL'S VEAL FRICASSEE
2 pounds boneless veal shoulder, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups thin strips onion
2 cups sliced celery
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 can (13 3/4 ounces) chicken broth
1 container (8 ounces) commercial sour cream
Dry veal on paper toweling. Mix salt, pepper and paprika and sprinkle over meat. In a large skillet heat the butter and lightly brown veal; turn veal into a 4 or 5-quart saucepot; add onion, celery and mushrooms. Add broth to skillet and stir over low heat to get up drippings; add to saucepot. Simmer, covered, until veal is tender—about 1 hour. Stir in sour cream; reheat but do not boil. (Sauce will be thin.) Serve over rice. Makes 6 servings. (One cup of sweet roasted red pepper strips — from a jar — may be added to the fricassee.)

We've just been reminded of the popular extra-nutritious salad that children love so well. Easy for mother to do too! Take plump cooked prunes and slit down one side to remove pit. Fill prunes with chunk style peanut butter and serve on lettuce. It's good with or without dressing.

STUFFED SHOULDER OF LAMB is a thrifty roast prepared in the Greek manner.

Stuffed Shoulder Of Lamb A Simple Recipe From Greece

Probably no nationality knows as many flavorful ways to cook lamb as do the Greeks. After all they've been raising sheep for thousands of years (there are records of men tending flocks of sheep in Greece since before 5,000 B.C.).

Arni Yemistes (stuffed shoulder of lamb) is a simple Greek recipe that will intrigue your family. It's exotic enough to fascinate yet features enough familiar foods so it won't intimidate.

Ask your butcher to cut a pocket in a lamb shoulder roast and to remove the blade bone, as well, for easier carving. A lamb shoulder roast is frequently a "best meat buy," priced well below more premium cuts of meat (a leg of lamb, for example).

Fill the pocket with a typical Greek stuffing of bread crumbs, raisins, oregano and garlic moistened with tomato sauce. Canned tomato sauce has the perfect consistency for binding the stuffing ingredients as well as the lively tomato flavor that's so much a part of Greek food.

About a half hour before the roast is done, baste it with more tomato sauce to enhance color as well as flavor.

Serve the lamb with a rice pilaf (use a rice mix for this), baby lima beans and a green salad or cucumbers marinated with onion, dill and yoghurt. For dessert try and find baklava (a honey and walnut pastry confection) at a Greek bakery (sometimes Italian bakeries carry baklava, too). Or simply pass a bowl of fresh or dried fruit and nuts.

ARNI YEMISTES
(Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb)

1 lamb shoulder roast with pocket (3 to 4 pounds)
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1-3 cup chopped celery
1-3 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1/4 cup raisins
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 teaspoon leaf oregano
1 clove garlic, crushed

Open pocket of roast; sprinkle inside and out with salt and pepper. In skillet cook celery and onion in butter until tender; mix in bread crumbs and raisins. Combine tomato sauce, oregano and garlic; mix 1-3 cup into stuffing and reserve remainder. Fill pocket with stuffing; close with skewers or tie with twine. Place, fat-side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 2 hours. Pour off fat. Pour remaining tomato sauce over meat; roast 30 to 40 minutes more, basting often. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

For easier carving ask your butcher to remove the blade bone from the roast when he cuts the pocket.

Refreshing Compote

A refreshing fruit compote to serve after curry.

Split Pea Soup with Sherry
Curried Shrimp

Snap Beans
Pineapple Compote

1 medium or large grapefruit
1 can (1 pound, 4 1/2 ounces) pineapple chunks
1/4 cup syrup-preserved sliced ginger, not packed down
Pare grapefruit so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes; drain. Mix grapefruit sections with pineapple and chill. Just before serving, stir in ginger. (If ginger is added too far ahead it "takes over" the other fruit flavors.) Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Spicy Old Dish Fine For A Party

Spicy flavors in this old New Orleans dish, Jambalaya, make it an excellent party idea. It needs only a salad and crusty French bread as accompaniments. Tomatoes, green peppers and rice combine with shrimp in this quick cooking, hearty dish. Crab can be used instead of shrimp, but to be authentic, add some diced cooked chicken and ham or spicy sausage like salami.

Skillet Salmon Steaks are another quick dinner idea combining rice, tomatoes and salmon. Rice and canned tomatoes and tomato products are being featured by the United States Department of Agriculture as the Plentiful-Foods-to-Feature the week of March 15-21.

JAMBALAYA

2 slices diced bacon
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 teaspoon salt
2 1-pound 3-oz. cans tomatoes
3 cups meat or chicken bouillon
1 bay leaf, crushed
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/2 teaspoon chili powder
Dash cayenne or hot sauce
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Dash paprika
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups uncooked rice
1 pound cooked shrimp or crab meat
1 cup diced cooked ham, chicken or sausage (optional)
Parsley garnish

Lightly cook bacon in large saucepan. Stir in onion and garlic and saute until golden. Add remaining ingredients except rice, shrimp or crab and parsley; bring to a boil. Stir in rice; cover and simmer 30 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Add shrimp or crab and heat thoroughly. Serve immediately. Makes six servings.

SKILLET SALMON STEAKS

2 pounds salmon steaks
1/2 cup onion, chopped
1 cup celery, chopped
1/2 cup melted butter
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 lemon
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1 bay leaf
1/4 teaspoon oregano
2 teaspoons salt
Dash pepper
1 1-lb. 13-oz. can tomatoes
3 cups cooked rice
Cut salmon into serving-size pieces. Using a deep frying pan, cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Add all ingredients except fish and rice; simmer 1/2-hour. Remove lemon, garlic, and bay leaf. Arrange salmon in sauce, cover and simmer until fork tender, about 15-20 minutes. Serve over hot rice. Serves six.

EASY BEEF STEW

2 lbs. stew meat, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 cup flour
3 tbsp. salad oil
1 envelope (1 and two-thirds or 1 1/2 oz.) beef stew seasoning mix
3 cups water
1 can (16 oz.) cut whole new potatoes
1 jar (16 oz.) cut whole style carrots
Coat meat with flour; brown in hot oil in Dutch oven. Add seasoning mix and water. Blend well. Bring to boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until tender. Add undrained potatoes and carrots. Simmer 15 minutes longer. Serves six (1 two-thirds cups each).

Pastors Announce Easter Week Services

Bethlehem Lutheran Church on Hickey Boulevard in Pacifica will celebrate the festival of Easter at three services of worship this Sunday announces the Rev. M. Douglas Swendsen, pastor.

Easter, the most important celebration of the year for the Christian Church, commemorates the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. Traditionally churches have held early morning services on Easter Sunday.

Bethlehem will hold an early morning service with Holy Communion at 6:30 a.m.

During this service, as a dramatic reminder of the meaning of Easter, the chancel of the church will be gradually transformed from the bleakness of Good Friday to the festive note of Easter. This early service will be followed by a breakfast served by the youth of the church.

There also will be worship services at the usual hours of 9 and 11 a.m.

Pastor Swendsen's sermon topic at these services will be, "Why Weep?"

The 9 a.m. service will include celebration of Holy Communion. Special music will be presented at both services. Nursery care will be provided.

Bethlehem will also offer services at 7:45 p.m. on Maundy Thursday, and on Good Friday.

A Tenebrae service will be used on Good Friday. "Tene-brae" means darkness. This service commemorates the event of the crucifixion and features the gradual extinguishing of light until the church is in darkness, reminding worshippers of the "darkness" which would exist without Easter.

"Celebrate Easter" is the theme for the Easter Sunday sermons by the Rev. Robert F. Clazie at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, South San Francisco.

The two worship services will begin at 9 and 10:30 a.m., and will also include festive music by the choir, directed by Mary Lee Pokrywka, with organist Kenneth Bond.

Commenting on the service,

Reverend Clazie pointed out that Easter is the most ancient festival of the Christian Church, and is actually the basis for each Sunday's worship experiences.

On Maundy Thursday — tomorrow — the traditional observance of the Lord's Supper will be combined with a choral presentation by the choir of St. Paul's, Aldersgate and San Bruno United Methodist Churches, at the San Bruno Church, 560 El Camino Real. This service will begin at 8 p.m.

The choir will sing "On the Passion of Christ" by David H. Williams prior to the observance of the Lord's Supper. Dr. William Dalton, minister of the host church, will be assisted by the Rev. Gilbert Viera and The Rev. Robert Clazie in the service.

The choir will be directed by Mary Lee Pokrywka with June Walrod, San Bruno organist accompanying the combined group. Lord Collier is director of the Aldersgate choir.

Easter Week services for St. Andrew's Catholic Church of Daly City will be held in the gymnasium of Westmoor High School, Daly City.

The celebration will begin with a community meal at 7 p.m. on Holy Thursday in Westmoor High School's cafeteria. Because of St. Andrew's limited facilities, the families attending this meal have been asked to take their own meal. Coffee and punch will be served. The Mass of the Lord's Supper will begin in the gymnasium at 8 p.m.

On Good Friday, special devotions will begin at noon. The Liturgical Service of the Passion of Our Lord will begin at 2 p.m.

During the three hours, there will be dramatic readings, Stations of the Cross, and slides in the mood of Good Friday. Holy Communion may be received at this service.

The Easter Vigil begins on Holy Saturday at 11 p.m. This is the most beautiful and oldest liturgies of the Church. The Easter Vigil includes blessing of the Paschal Fire and the Baptismal Font after which begins the first Mass of Easter.

Easter Sunday Masses will be at 7, 8, 9:15, 10:30, 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. in the Westmoor High School gymnasium.

"According to the Scriptures" is the sermon topic for the 11 o'clock morning worship hour.

Seiler Elected To Presidency

Stuart W. Seiler has been elected president of the Board of Directors of Directors of the Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center by the Board at its February meeting.

Elected to serve with him on the Executive Committee are: Mrs. Oscar Rushakoff, first vice-president; Lawrence D. Freiberg, second vice-president; Robert Levy, treasurer; and Mrs. Joseph Kaplan, secretary.

Also elected to serve three year terms on the Board of Directors were: Edmund Green, Mrs. Gerhard Lowenthal, Stanley Diamond, Mrs. Robert Blau, Mrs. Anita Jacobs, Harold Light, Robert Shimoff, Dr. Ernest Siegel.

message at Westside Baptist Church, 390 Inverness Drive, in Pacifica.

Special music will be presented by the adult choir, with Mrs. Hazel Leong at the organ.

During the adult service, a nursery will be maintained for babies and toddlers; then there are two children's church services; one for those 3-6 years of age, and one for those 7-8 years of age.

Sunday School is at 9:45 a.m. Since moving into their new facilities, the Sunday School has been departmentalized. A class is provided for every age grouping from toddlers through adults. During the class period, Pastor A. David Donnelly is conducting a Pastor's Class for youth and adults.

Family Fellowship Gospel Hour will be at 7 p.m. This is an informal type service with a period of lively congregational singing, with Mrs. Hazel Leong at the organ, Dean Arvidson at the piano, and the Brass Instruments accompanying. Special music will be provided, and also there will be a time for personal testimonies.

Pastor Donnelly will speak on the topic, "Will It Last?" Junior GMG will meet March 30, 3:45 p.m. at the church. Another guild group meets March 31, at 3:45 p.m., at 342 Warwick, Daly City.

Holy Week at First Lutheran Church in South San Francisco will be celebrated with several services, according to the Rev. Trenton R. Ferro, pastor.

Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m. a Holy Communion service will be celebrated with the sermon based on the theme "The Abundant Life Abounds in The Remembrance of Christ."

Good Friday will have two observances. One will start at noon with seven separate services included in the two and one-half hours. Seven pastors have been scheduled to participate from the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod and from the American Lutheran Church.

Walter Hartkopf will be the organist for the complete services. Good Friday evening will have a Vesper meditation at 7:30 p.m. with Reverend Ferro officiating.

Easter Sunday morning services will begin with a special Sunrise service at 6:15 a.m. that will be completely different from the 8:15 and 11 a.m. services.

All members have been urged through a special letter from the pastor, to attend at least two services on that day.

A good opportunity for fellowship will be during the traditional Easter breakfast cooked by the church council members for all the congregation and their families and friends, the pastor said.

Pastor Bill G. Wilms of Our Redeemer's Lutheran Church, 609 Southwood Drive at El Camino Real, announces the following worship opportunities during Holy Week:

Maundy Thursday, 7:30 p.m. Holy Communion. Sermon: "The Robe — A Symbol Redeemed."

Good Friday, Two Services: 10 a.m., Children's Worship Service; 7:30 p.m.

$100,000

Fire Hits

S.S.F. Firm

Fire generating flames that soared as high as 70 feet into the air caused an estimated $100,000 damage to the Reichhold Chemical Company in South San Francisco early Friday.

Nearly 50 firemen from South San Francisco, Brisbane and San Bruno were called to the large plant at 120 South Linden Avenue shortly after 1:15 a.m.

Even as fire equipment arrived flames shooting from the varnish area of the facility were described as "very high" by firemen rushing to the plant.

Fire Chief John Marchi of South San Francisco gave an early, unofficial estimate of $100,000 damage, although he acknowledged it could be less, perhaps even more.

Marchi explained that flames were confined mostly to the varnish room and varnish area of the plant after an acetylene torch, being used to thaw a frozen varnish pipe, ignited the varnish.

After the fire started, Marchi said, "it went fast."

He praised the efforts of his own men, as well as those of Brisbane and San Bruno fire departments, who were called in under mutual aid agreements.

"We saved them a good million-dollar fire," the chief asserted. "It could easily have been a million-dollar fire," he reiterated.

Recreation

Hall To Be

Dedicated

A new hall for recreation purposes has been acquired by Congregation B'nai Israel at 2159 Junipero Serra Blvd. and April 1, at 8 p.m., has been set for its dedication.

According to the newly appointed director, Julius Michaelis, a teen group of high school age has been formed, and the new hall will be their meeting place.

The Hashachar groups of 9 to 13 year olds will meet there every second Wednesday, starting today.

Adult groups also will use the new location for meetings and recreation. The public is invited to attend the dedication ceremony at which Rabbi Solomon A. Shore and Cantor Henry Greenberg will officiate.

Clothing Theft — A $1400 Loss

If Nancy Jasoni of 261 Huntington, San Bruno, gets to feeling someone is impressed by the way she dresses, it would be understandable.

She just reported the theft of $1,400 in clothing. Police said the burglary occurred sometime on March 17. There was no sign of forced entry.

According to police, just last week the victim reported another burglary in which she lost a stereo and television valued at $800.

GUAM DUTY

AGANA, Guam — U.S. Air Force Sergeant Jack E. Aydelott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Aydelott, 179 Acacia Street, Daly City, is on duty at Andersen AFB, Guam.

Power Out In Homes

More than 1633 homes in the western reaches of San Bruno and Millbrae were without electrical power for a period March 17-18.

A spokesman for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. said the total area involved extended roughly south from Sneath Lane, between Skyline and Junipero Serra, as far south as Ridgeway Drive in Millbrae.

A 12,000 volt line apparently was involved, with power going off at 9:15 p.m. Most of these were back in service by 9:55 p.m., the PG&E spokesman explained, but one section of Crestmoor Park, where the trouble originated — an eight to ten block area — was without power until about 1:25 p.m.

The PG&E source explained that erosion caused a line connector to part.

Committee Posts Draw 36 Hopefuls

Republicans are showing more interest in county central committee service than Democrats on the basis of numbers filed for election in the June 2 primary.

At the close of the filing period Friday, 36 men and women had filed for 23 positions on the Republican Central Committee, with contests in each of the five supervisorial districts.

Only 20 candidates had filed for 22 seats on the Democratic County Central Committee, however, and there will be a contest only in the First Supervisorial District, where five were filed for four positions. County Clerk - Recorder Marvin Church said the central committee races will not be on the ballot in districts where there are no contests. Vacancies resulting from an insufficient number of candidates will be filled by appointment by the committee itself, Church said.

No one filed for the Peace and Freedom County Central Committee and there was only one American Independent Party candidate: incumbent Nicholas W. Kudrovseff, 1104 Rosita Road, Pacifica. The AIP and Peace and Freedom parties claim only a handful of the county's voters.

Here are the major party candidates, with (I) indicating incumbent:

Seven Hurt In Bayshore Car Crash

Seven persons, including four members of a Pacifica family, were injured at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in a four-car accident on Bayshore Freeway in Burlingame.

Highway patrolmen said the chain-reaction accident was apparently caused by a table that fell from a truck or trailer onto the roadway.

Taken to Peninsula Hospital were two of the drivers, Pamela W. McBride, 26, of 924 Hill Street, Belmont, and William M. Koll, 29, of Redmond, Washington, and five passengers in a station wagon driven by Dana C. Louie, 25-year-old San Francisco medical student; Lolita A. Louie, 23, and Rosita Santos, 18, Juan C. Santos, 57, Josephine Santos, 12, and Juanita Santos, 27, all of 359 Milagra Drive, Pacifica.

Juan Santos, an intensive care unit orderly at the hospital was admitted for observation.

The others were treated and dismissed.
